RUSSIA PLANS WAR ON INDIA

British Government Has Campaign Mapped Out by Gen. Kuropatkin.

KNOWS ALL DETAILS

Casus Belli Would Be Collision Between Russian and Afghan Outposts.

WOULD TAKE 115,000 TROOPS

By PAUL LAMBETH.
[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, July 20.—England's Indian empire may be the seat of the greatest of modern wars, if the present critical condition brought about by the action of Russia in sending alleged merchantmen through the Dardanelles and then transforming them into cruisers to prey on British commerce results in hostilities between the two countries.

That the Russian general staff has already prepared elaborate plans for the invasion of India has been well known and that the British government has in its possession the plans regarded by the Russians as the most feasible, is also known. They are the work of no less important a personage than Gen. Kuropatkin, prepared by him after a long and minute examination of the northwest frontier of India.

The plans provide for an advance through Afghanistan, divided into two campaigns. The first is to end after the taking of Herat, Maimana, Balkh and Badakhshan. The second, which it is proposed to begin some two or three years later, so as to give the army time to rest and Russia time to properly administer the country, would close with the capture of Kashmir and Kashgar on the one hand, and of Kandahar and Kabul on the other. Says Kuropatkin:

"There is no occasion for me to speak of a third campaign toward India, because after our first advance the English would find themselves in a pitiable state in India, and 50 per cent of their influence would have gone; and after our second advance the English would find themselves in the same state as they were in 1857, with this difference—the natives would have our support."

Need to Gain Mullahs.

The plans are then outlined in detail, in the course of which Kuropatkin says:

"The most important point in the campaign will be Khorassan. Here the holy plain of Meshed will play a great role in our advance, for Meshed is the key to our affairs in Central Asia, and of our moral success among Mussulmans. For this reason it is absolutely necessary for us to gain the good will of the mullahs of Meshed, who in turn will give the people confidence in our movements. It is true that we need not fear them, because they are not in a position to oppose us, but they can cause us embarassments without end and in questions of commissariat, which in war are of the greatest consequence. Such a holy spot as Meshed must give us cause for serious thought as to how we are to take effective measures to paralyze its powers of attack and defense, and how we should unite its resources to the power of the emperor, and avoid all misunderstanding which might occur to our army advancing on Afghanistan before the annexation of Khorassan by Russia. All depends on the mullahs'

BRITAIN TO THE CZAR

NICHOLAS IS DISPLEASED

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON, July 21.—The Standard's correspondent with the first Japanese army, cabling under date of July 19, says:

"Our right flank has been engaged since morning."

The correspondent of the Times, with Gen. Kuroki's army, under date of July 19, confirms the Standard correspondent's report.

TA-TCHE-KIAO, July 19.—(Delayed in transmission).—Sharp fighting was reported yesterday to the northwest where, it is stated, the Japanese lost 10 guns. Their forces were pushed back and their positions occupied as far as Saimatsze. If this report be true it indicates a heavy engagement.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Paris, July 20.—From high authority I get the information that sure news has been received here to the effect that Russia will make amicable reply to the German and British inquiries concerning the seizures by the volunteer fleet cruisers in the Red Sea, and that the whole question will be settled through regular diplomatic channels. This action is due to the initiative of the czar himself, who has declared that there must be no action which would make war between Russia and Great Britain or Germany even a possibility.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, July 21.—The China Mutual Steam Navigation Company's steamer Pak Ling is believed to have been seized in the Red sea. The Pak Ling sailed from Middlesborough, England, June 18, and London July 2nd, bound for Yokohama. She is a British owned vessel.

The correspondent at Odessa of the Standard telegraphing under date of July 20, says:

"Another volunteer fleet steamer proceeded hence tonight to Sebastopol for coal and armament preparatory to leaving the Black sea. Two of the remaining five volunteer fleet steamers here will follow shortly."

St. Petersburg, July 21.—The Associated Press has just been informed that Emperor Nicholas, in an interview with Count Lamsdorff, the foreign minister, expressed his displeasure at the turn events had taken and at the possibility of complications with Great Britain arising out of the detention of British ships by the Russian volunteer fleet steamers in the Red sea.

VLADIVOSTOK SQUADRON IS SINKING JAPANESE SHIPS

Fleet of the Mikado's Torpedo Boats Is Chasing It Towards Harbor of Russia's Ally, Saigon in French Indo-China.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The Japanese legation has received the following cablegram from the foreign office at Tokyo:

"At 9:30 a. m., July 20, the Vladivostok squadron fired on and sunk a Japanese steamboat of 218 tons off the coast of Iseya, about 25 miles from Hakodate. All of the crew were landed safely at Cape Yesan."

TOKYO, Monday, July 18.—(Delayed in Transmission.)—The Russian Vladivostok squadron has released the seized merchantmen and steamed eastward. A Japanese torpedo boat flotilla is pursuing the squadron.

The steamer overhauled was the Taketshima. She arrived at Mororan at noon today, and reports that she left the Russian vessels steaming to the southeast at great speed. This course creates the impression here that they are heading for Saigon, the capital of French Indo-China, although it is possible that this course is a ruse to deceive the Japanese.

YOKOHAMA, July 20.—In consequence of the presence at sea of the Russian Vladivostok squadron, the steamers Winghang, Heathdone and Lennox have been ordered not to leave Yokohama.

PARIS, July 20.—The Temps, discussing the passage of the Vladivostok squadron through the Straits of Tsuger, says its purpose is either to attack the unprotected cities on the eastern coast of Japan, or to intercept American merchant steamers which are supplying Japan with all sorts of provisions through the port of Yokohama.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 20.—Vice Admiral Bezobrazoff's action giving the slip to Vice Admiral Kamimura and passing Tsuger straits with the Vladivostok squadron is regarded as evidence of the insufficiency of the Japanese naval forces. It is probably the purpose of Admiral Bezobrazoff to raid the coast towns of Japan, capture merchantmen, make a naval demonstration off Yokohama and generally create a panic among the population, in order to compel Rear Admiral Togo to reinforce Admiral Kamimura and thus weaken the fleet off Port Arthur. The idea that Admiral Bezobrazoff would seriously attack large ports of Japan is, however, rejected, owing to the danger from submarine boats, mines, torpedo boats and shore batteries.

A report is current that the Vladivostok squadron is homeward bound, under orders to effect a juncture with the First division of Vice Admiral Rogestvensky's aBltic squadro, which is ready to go out on a trial trip in Baltic.

RIVAL ARMIES APART BUT ONE DAY'S MARCH

Japanese Make Further Progress on the Road to Liao-Yang.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

ST. PETERSBURG, July 20.—Gen. Kuropatkin reports this evening that a considerable column of Japanese is advancing along the northern Salmatsza-Liao Yang road. This column came into touch with Gen. Rennenkampff's cavalry near Sekheyan Monday last. The Russians fell back before the advancing column Monday and Tuesday some 13 miles to Houtsiatze, 25 miles as the crow flies from Liao-Yang. The bulk of the armies are now within striking distance, and only a single day's march separates them.

The great importance of the appearance of the Japanese on the northern road is that if the advance should be pushed, Gen. Keller's position in the Lian valley would be outflanked, as would later on the strong Russian position at Liandinsian, which command the Feng-Wang-Cheng high road and two minor roads from Simoucheng and Siuyen over which the Japanese would advance to the north. Once flanked here, the road to Liao-Yang would be open.

KAISER IS ANGRY.

Declares He Will Not Permit Interference With German Shipping.

BERLIN, July 20.—(Special.)—News of the seizure of the Hamburg-American liner Sambria in the Red sea by Russian cruisers has increased the bitter feeling against the Russians by the holding up of the Prinz Heinrich and the government is being urged to take strong measures to put a stop to the business. The kaiser is said to be angry, and is quoted as having declared with emphasis that interference with German shipping will not be tolerated.

Apparently there is no special effort being made to put either the army or the navy on a war footing. Germany is bound to neither of the combatants by treaty or private understanding, and does not propose to burn her fingers pulling anybody's chestnuts out of the fire but her own. She will not fight unless German interests are imperilled to an extent more serious than now seems probable.

FICKLE SOUTH DAKOTA.

It Cheers Parker's Name But Swears Allegiance to William J. Bryan.

ABERDEEN, S. D., July 20.—The Democratic state convention today nominated Louis N. Crill of Union county for governor and Frederick S. Rowe of Stanley county for lieutenant governor. Although the convention appeared to be in control by the radical, or Bryan, element of the Democratic party, yet the mention of Judge Parker's name by the temporary chairman was greeted with tumultuous applause.

The platform adopted commends the action of the St. Louis convention, renews allegiance to William J. Bryan and declares for government ownership of railroads and public utilities.

Dramatic Passing of One of Pittsburgh's Most Prominent Men.

FOUND BY HIS SISTER

Spent the Forenoon Downtown and Appeared to Be in Good Health.

STORY OF SUCCESSFUL CAREER

Thomas Steel Bigelow was found dead of heart disease yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock at his residence in North Highland avenue and Jackson street.

After spending half a day downtown transacting private business and discussing political plans and declaring that he never felt better in his life, Mr. Bigelow went home. Two hours afterward he was a corpse. His sister found him dead on a couch in the parlor, where he laid down to take his usual afternoon nap. His death fulfilled the prediction of a famous specialist a month ago, who told Director E. M. Bigelow that his brother was liable to die at any time, and suddenly.

The story of Mr. Bigelow's death is best told in the words of his brother, the director, who resides next door and was the first one summoned.

Spent a Busy Morning.

"About 7 o'clock in the morning my brother, who always arose about that hour, called me up by telephone and asked me when I was going down town. I told him any time. About 8 o'clock he said he would go down with me. About 8 o'clock I was sitting on my front porch when my brother came along and we took a car. I got off the car at Sixth avenue and Smithfield street, my brother riding on around to Fourth avenue to his office. This was the last time that I saw my brother alive. About 11:30 he called me up at the city hall by telephone and gave me some business to attend to.

"From what I learn, he left his office at 12:30 o'clock, stopped off at the Liberty National bank, where he did his banking business, and where my brother-in-law, H. H. Woods, is cashier. He attended to some business at the bank and then came home, arriving at the house shortly before 2 o'clock. He always ate his dinner in the middle of the day, about 1:30 or 2 o'clock, coming home for it.

Ate a Hearty Dinner.

"When he came into the house he lay down on the couch while the dinner was being prepared. A few minutes afterward my sister told him that the dinner was ready and that she would run down to see her sister, Mrs. Woods. She left him and he got up and ate a hearty dinner. There was no one else in the house except my nephew, Albert Schultze, and the servants. After dinner my brother returned to the parlor and laid down again for a nap.

"My sister returned to the house about 4 o'clock. She passed into the parlor and spoke to my brother. He was still lying on the couch with a fan in his hand. He did not answer her. She approached and saw that something was wrong. She called to my nephew and told him to bring help. I had just come home and was sitting on the porch when my nephew rushed up.

Consciousness Gone Forever.

"I ran up to the house and found the servants had lifted my brother from the couch and put him on the floor and were rubbing his hands and feet in the hope of reviving consciousness. I have no doubt that he was dead then.

"My wife was preparing to take a drive, and jumping into the buggy I drove to the offices of four different doctors in Highland avenue, but found none of them in.

"Dr. Westervelt was the first one I found. He was attending an operation, but came when I told him that my brother was dying. I drove Dr. Westervelt to the house on a fast gallop and Drs. Heard and Emmerling arrived soon afterward. They applied all kinds of restoratives to revive my brother and made an incision in his arm, but to no avail.

"It was the Hays campaign for mayor last year that ruined his health. After that campaign he was nearly dead and there seemed to be no chance here of getting relief for him.

Consulted New York Specialist.

"I consulted Dr. Janeway, the specialist, in New York, and he said he could not come to Pittsburgh. I then put my brother on a train and took him to New York. Dr. Janeway treated him there and he came back to Pittsburgh greatly improved. He made several trips to New York afterward to see Dr. Janeway. The last trip was made recently at the time the contest for Senator Quay's seat in the United States senate was in progress. My brother stopped in Philadelphia and went on to New York to see Dr. Janeway. I saw Dr. Janeway myself about a month ago and he told me that my brother might live 25 years and might die at any moment."

The three physicians who were summoned to attend Mr. Bigelow agreed that

Mr. Bigelow's Words Now Appear Significant

Thomas S. Bigelow was down town yesterday morning. In answering a question put to him by a reporter for an afternoon paper regarding the election of controller next February Mr. Bigelow said:

"I do not know what will happen. The election is a long way ahead. It is enough to live our lives from day to day."

BEEF STRIKE IS SETTLED

Packers Agree to Take Back Union Employes, Pending Arbitration.

MEN WIN CONTENTION

Board of Three Is Now to Decide Questions at Issue.

SCALE IS MOST IMPORTANT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Chicago, July 20.—The strike of packing houses' employes was settled here tonight at a conference between representatives of the packers, the officials of the meat cutters' union and representatives of all the allied trades employed at the stock yards.

The whole controversy will be submitted to a board of arbitration. Both sides agree to abide by whatever decision this board may reach. Pending a decision the men will be taken back to work as rapidly as possible by the packers. It is agreed by the packers that all the old employes are to be reinstated within 45 days from the date work is resumed. If any of the former employes are still unemployed at the expiration of that time, such persons are to have the privilege of submitting their cases to the arbitration board for settlement.

The strikers will return to work as soon as they can be notified of the peaceable adjustment of the trouble. It is expected that by Friday morning everything will be in normal shape at all the plants in the different cities where the employes were on strike. Half an hour after the decision had been reached to arbitrate, M. J. Donnelly, the strike leader, had secured communication by long distance telephone with the leaders of the strikers in outside cities, and directed the strikers to return to work as soon as possible.

Credit Due Allied Trades.

The settlement of the difficulty by arbitration was brought about by the allied craft at the stock yards, who would have become involved in the controversy had it continued much longer. The representatives of these unions, which represent about 14,000 men, got together yesterday and sent a final appeal to the packers for a conference. Today's meeting was the result.

The arbitration board is to consist of three practical packing house men to be selected as follows: One representative of the packing companies, one representative of the Amalgamated Meatcutters and Butchers Workmen of North America; these two to select a third member. The two first named shall meet within 48 hours after resumption of work to elect the third member and shall meet daily for that purpose until this duty has been completed. When the third member has been selected the three shall meet daily, unless adjournment be had by unanimous consent, until the final conclusion has been reached and the award made.

Arbitation of Wage Scale.

When the men are to return to work it will be under exactly the conditions that prevailed before the strike was declared, with the exception that the question of a wage scale will be decided by arbitration. The old wage scale under which the union worked last year expired May 28. Since that time numerous conferences have been held between the packers and the union in an effort to settle on a new schedule, but without avail. Nine days ago it was decided to call a strike in order to bring the employers to terms.

KANSAS CITY, MO., July 20.—C. W. Armour of the Armour Packing Company, tonight received a telegram from Chicago informing him that the strike had been settled and that the strikers had been ordered to report for work Friday morning. Mr Armour refused to discuss the settlement, stating that he had not received the details of the agreement. The managers of other local packing houses refused to discuss the settlement because they are not familiar with the terms of the settlement. At the headquarters of the strikers the news that the packers and strikers had reached an agreement in Chicago was received with much satisfaction. Labor leaders said that the strikers here would report for duty tomorrow morning.

ST. PAUL, MINN., July 20.—The officials of the Swift Packing Company branch, the Union Stock Yards Company and the local branch of meatcutters and butchers' unions, all alike expressed delight and satisfaction upon hearing tonight that the conference at Chicago had resulted in the settling of the strike. They did not try to conceal their great relief.

"GLAD TO HEAR IT."

President's Remark When He Received News of Strike Settlement.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., July 20.—(Special.)—The news of the settlement of the beef strike was received at the executive offices at Oyster Bay at 9:30 o'clock tonight and was immediately transmitted by telephone to the president at Sagamore Hill. "I am glad to hear it; it is certainly good news," was the only comment made by the president.

SOUTHERN PIG IRON ADVANCED 25 CENTS

NEW YORK, July 20.—(Special.)—News was received in Wall street this afternoon that an advance had been ordered in the minimum price of southern pig iron, No. 2, from $9.25 to $9.50, and that all producing companies would unite in the higher schedule. It was said that decreased production, coupled with renewed demands of consumers, made the companies confident that the new minimum price could be maintained.

WILLIAMSPORT, PA., July 20.—C. F. Naller, superintendent of the Baltimore Life Insurance Company, dropped dead in his office here tonight.

GOLD TELEGRAM PLEASED GROVER

Cleveland Says Democracy Has Emerged from Wilderness.

BLOTS OUT THE PAST

Ex-President Thinks Parker's Position Compensates for Years of Vagaries.

EVEN AGREES WITH TILLMAN

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square
NEW YORK, July 20.

"Steady, Democrats, Steady," is the title of an article by Grover Cleveland, which will be printed in Collier's for July 23. In it Mr. Cleveland lauds the action of Judge Parker in sending his "gold telegram" to the St. Louis convention, and expressed his satisfaction with the platform and the outlook, in part, as follows:

It is time for all who love true Democracy to calmly survey the situation as it appears since the dust and swelter of convention controversy have passed away.

Such a survey is full of congratulation and hope. In the first place, it creates the assurance that the national Democracy as an organization has been freed from the financial delusions that have made it weak, and has entered upon a period of old-time vigor and strength. This is too apparent for denial.

No action of Democracy's representatives assembled in the late convention can be construed in any other way than as an acknowledgment of the establishment of the gold standard and a willing pledge to its maintenance. This condition should of itself be sufficient to fill our measure of satisfaction as to cause us to forget any fears of trepidation that may have vexed us during the days just past.

Secured by Federal Enactment.

I do not overlook the fact that two clear and unimpeached verdicts of the people stand recorded in favor of the gold standard, and that its perpetuity has been secured by federal enactment; but I insist that, in refusing to indulge any further free silver or double standard vagaries, the convention did not, on account of existing conditions, merely make a virtue of necessity, but that it voiced, instead, an actual and wholesome change in sentiment among the rank and file of Democracy.

I want to go further than this and to express a reverent belief that certain convention occurrences, apparently untoward, have worked together for Democracy's good, and that a happy outcome has been reached through a medium wiser and more certain than the wit of man could have devised.

Senator Tillman and I have occasionally differed; but I hope he will take no offense if I applaud and give hearty concurrence to his expression of the belief that "Providence has taken kindly hold on our affairs."

Of course it would have been a matter of great satisfaction to those of us who have always been unyielding and insistent gold standard Democrats if we could have had a declaration in the platform committing our party in distinct terms to the acceptance and constant defense and maintenance of the gold standard, not because of an unexpected increase in gold production, but on grounds of economic wisdom and national honor.

As protestations of affection never fatigue, so those who supremely love a safe standard for our people's money cannot hear too often that the gold standard is immutably fixed. Nevertheless, as an original proposition, such a platform assurance was not necessary either on sentimental grounds or to make gold standard conditions more certain. They were as unchangeably settled as they could be, with or without platform declaration.

As to Judge Parker's telegram to the convention, Mr. Cleveland says that previous to its reception there had been trepidation and disappointment among the masses of the expectant Democracy over the absence of any statement concerning the gold standard.

"At this critical moment," he says, "the sun appeared and scattered every evil portent. In this time of fear and gloom a leader came to the Democratic hosts."

Quoting the Parker message, Mr. Cleveland says:

Those Democrats who have been impatient of the silence of their party's candidate ought to be satisfied with the effectiveness of his first utterance. It fitted the blank in a disabled platform, it gave leadership to the Democratic cause and rallied supporters by thousands and tens of thousands to the Democratic standard.

Mr. Cleveland says of the vote indorsing Judge Parker's telegram:

This vote furnished the best, if not the only, opportunity offered during the continuance of the convention to demonstrate how overwhelmingly sound its members were in support of the gold standard; and its results cannot, I gratefully believe, be otherwise construed than as indicating the elimination of financial error as a disturbing influence in Democratic councils.

I believe that no man ever did so much for the cause, and in so many directions, in so short a time and in so compact a form, as was done by our candidate when he sent his message to the St. Louis convention.

MEN SLEEP IN LINE.

Registration for Rosebud Lands Is Now About 1,000 an Hour.

YANKTON, S. D., July 20.—The United States government opened a third registration booth today to accommodate the increasing crowd of Rosebud land seekers at this point. The registration is now about 1,000 an hour at the three booths. The principal business street is a moving mass of humanity. Missourians and Kansans lead in the new arrivals. Missouri, north from Kansas City and Kansas east of Topeka are represented by thousands.

The registration yesterday was 6,460, bringing the total up to 39,388. Men formed in line last night, and some brought to the line chairs in which they slept.

Scale Changes Recommended.

MARIETTA, O., July 20.—The American Flint Glass Workers' union heard many committee reports today and others will follow tomorrow. Several of the committees recommend important changes in the scale of wages and hours of work. The conference with the manufacturers will be held at Atlantic City next month.

Protest to Japanese.

TIENTSIN, July 20.—The owners of the steamers Pei Ping and Hsi Ping, captured by the Japanese, have not learned the reasons for their seizure. They maintain that they were not carrying contraband of war.

DAVIS A VISITOR AT PARKER'S HOME

Democratic Presidential Candidates Have Their First Meeting at Esopus.

TO BE NOTIFIED SEPARATELY

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ESOPUS, N. Y., July 20.—Judge Alton B. Parker and former Senator Henry G. Davis, Democratic candidates for president and vice president, met for the first time at Judge Parker's home, Rosemount, today. Both men clasped hands warmly, exchanged greetings and in a few minutes former Senator Davis was as much "at home" as though Rosemount had long been on his visiting list.

Not only was it an occasion for the standard bearers of the Democratic party to meet and measure each other, but there were important political matters that had to be gone into. Out of nearly five hours of companionship came one official announcement made by Judge Parker personally, that it has been decided that he and Mr. Davis are to be notified separately of their nomination by the St. Louis convention, and at their respective homes.

One other thing was decided upon, but it was not given official publicity, and that is that Senator Gorman must, if possible, be prevailed upon to accept the chairmanship of the national committee. It is believed that he will be the ultimate selection.

When the West Shore train arrived here at 12:15 o'clock this afternoon Judge Parker's wagonette was at the little station in waiting for it. The first passenger to jump from a parlor car was Norman E. Mack of Buffalo, and right behind him was former Senator Davis, followed by his secretary, C. M. Hendley, and Daniel J. Campau of Michigan, a member of the national committee.

When the wagonette and the expected guests rolled up to the front door of the Parker home Judge Parker stood ready to extend his welcome. As the passengers alighted on the veranda Mr. Mack said:

"Judge Parker, allow me to introduce Senator Davis."

Judge Parker's and Mr. Davis' hands were warmly clasped, and heartily shaken as the judge said:

"I'm delighted to meet you, senator, and I'm glad to see you at my home."

"And I'm pleased to meet you, judge," Mr. Davis replied, "and to be at your beautiful place."

Mr. Campau was then presented by Mr. Mack. Judge Parker a few minutes later introduced all of the visitors to Mrs. Parker. For a few minutes the conversation was of a general character, and it was at this time that it was suggested that Mr. Davis, Mr. Mack and Mr. Hendley be escorted around the grounds and be shown the commodious barn and its contents.

Judge Parker wanted to talk with Mr. Campau, who could not remain as long as the others. Judge Parker and the national committeeman from Michigan talked for half an hour. During this time Mr. Campau advocated Senator Gorman's selection for the national committee chairmanship.

When his inspection of the premises outside of the residence was completed Mr. Davis sauntered up to the veranda and became an enthusiastic party to a discussion that was only disturbed when luncheon was announced.

LONG EXPECTED BATTLE HAS COMMENCED

ambassador to Russia, yesterday afternoon, in behalf of his government, presented a strong protest to Russia against the seizure in the Red sea and detention of the Peninsula & Oriental steamer Malacca, which was carrying 300 tons of British government stores for the naval establishment at Hongkong, each case of which was marked with the broad arrow, which is the government stamp. The ambassador also presented a general protest against the action of the Russian volunteer fleet steamers in the Red sea.

LONDON, July 20.—(Special Cable.)—Every government shipyard in England has been ordered to work day and night in order to rush to completion repairs under way. The ordnance and commissary forces are also working 24 hours a day to get every fighting craft in commission to the highest state of efficiency. The naval reserves have been notified to hold themselves in readiness. There has been much activity also in the transport department and owners of subsidized craft have been informed that the government might need certain of their vessels at a moment's notice. If war actually was at hand, the government could not show more activity.

The feeling against Russia is of a strength and a bitterness almost without precedent since the Crimean war. Even the most conservative who have been in the service of the government for many years and who openly deplored the haste with which they thought Great Britain had plunged into the Transvaal war, tonight frankly declared for a policy of reprisal against what is regarded here as Russia's violation of treaties and her piratical attack on British commerce.

Russian Middy in Charge.

According to a Daily Mail dispatch from Port Said, the Malacca is in charge of a Russian midshipman. The same dispatch declares that the union jack was torn down by the Russian prize crew, although the Rusians treated the passengers and crew of the Malacca with every courtesy. The captain of the Malacca asserts that the capture was made within the three-mile limit.

The Daily Mail says it understands that the London officials of the Peninsular and Oriental Steamship Company refused to take a cargo of horseshoe nails and aluminum cooking utensils for the Japanese army by the Malacca and that these were subsequently taken by a German steamer which had already safely passed through the Red sea flying the German flag, as this was found to give better protection.

"Lord Lansdowne," says the Daily Telegraph, voicing the views of the government, "has faced the situation created by the abuse of the right of search in the only manner worthy of a British minister compelled to defend the interests of British commerce and the honor of the flag and, acting with unhesitating firmness and promptitude which recall the strongest days of the national policy he has justified the trust of the country."

PORT SAID, July 20.—The crew and passengers of the Peninsular and Oriental steamer Malacca, seized by the Russian volunteer fleet steamer St. Petersburg in the Red sea, have been landed here. The ship is detained by the authorities who are waiting instructions before taking further action.

The crew of the Malacca were kept under strict arrest, and when they arrived at Suez at dawn, July 19, they were not allowed to communicate with the shore. The Malacca arrived at Port Said at dawn today and asked for 400 tons of coal, 220 tons of fresh water and provisions for Cherbourg. The case was referred to the Egyptian government, it being the first time on record that an alleged prize had been taken through the canal under a different flag. The Malacca's passengers have been transferred to the steamer Marmora of the Peninsular and Oriental line.

THOMAS STEEL BIGELOW FOUND DEAD ON COUCH; HEART CEASED TO BEAT WHILE HE SLUMBERED

his death was due to heart disease, from which he had been suffering for several years.

"It was dilation of the heart," said Dr. J. D. Heard, Mr. Bigelow's attending physician. "We did everything possible to restore him but he was dead when we arrived," said he and Dr. Westervelt.

News Spread Rapidly.

The news of Mr. Bigelow's death spread rapidly through the East End and down town. Within a couple of hours there were many callers at the house to express their sympathy to the family. Among the first to arrive were Mayor Hays and Murry A. Verner. Directors Moore and Clark, Treasurer Collingwood and Councilman John F. Steel and a number of other councilmen, city officials and personal friends called during the evening.

The house where Mr. Bigelow died is the old Bigelow homestead, which has been occupied by the family since 1878. It is one of the most beautiful spots in the East End, the house sitting far back from the street behind rows of trees and a lawn nearly a block long. The house is not pretentious from the outside, but inside is furnished luxuriously and with the quiet taste that denoted the owner. Here Mr. Bigelow resided at the time of his death with his only unmarried sister, Miss Mary L. Bigelow. It was Mr. Bigelow's habit since his effort to retire from active politics as much as possible, to spend his afternoons and evenings at home. Since his critical illness a year ago last spring he seldom went down town in the afternoons, but during the morning hours he was always busy with his political and business associates.

BORN IN SECOND WARD FIFTY-EIGHT YEARS AGO

Birthplace on Site of Dollar Savings Bank—Namesake of Famous Politician.

Thomas Steel Bigelow was 58 years of age at his death. He was born on June 28, 1846, in Fourth avenue, Second ward, in a house where the Dollar Savings bank now stands. His father was Edward Manning Bigelow, of English descent, the first of the family coming to this country in 1639, who came to Pittsburgh from Watertown, N. J. His mother was Mary Steel, sister of Thomas Steel, who was years ago a political power in Pittsburgh. Mr. Bigelow was named for this uncle. He was a first cousin of C. L. Magee and Councilman John F. Steel. Mr. Bigelow's parents resided first in Fourth avenue and later in Third avenue. They removed to North Highland avenue in 1878, to the house where Mr. Bigelow died yesterday. His father died of cholera in 1856. His mother died in November, 1886.

Mr. Bigelow's father was a carriage manufacturer, having a factory at Wood and Diamond streets and one in Monongahela City. He left his family a modest estate, which included the house in North Highland avenue, the building in Fourth avenue, above Smithfield, where Mr. Bigelow had his offices, and several other small properties.

Educated in Allegheny County.

It was sufficient to maintain the family and to give Thomas, the eldest of five children, an education. He first attended the Second ward school at Ross and Diamond streets, was then instructed by a private tutor, then attended Prof. Williams' school in Diamond street, and later the Western university.

When under his majority Mr. Bigelow entered the office of George Shiras, II., afterward a justice of the United States supreme court, to study law, and in a couple of years was admitted to the local bar. In 1872 he was elected city attorney by the finance committee of councils and served for nine years. During this time he handled a number of difficult legal problems, including the Penn avenue case, which was a noted one in the local courts at that time.

Under the Penn avenue act passed by the legislature Penn avenue and a number of other leading thoroughfares of the city were improved. After the improvements had been made a contest by some property owners affected demonstrated the act to be unconstitutional, and the city was forced to compromise with the property holders and pay a part of the expense. When he retired from the city attorneyship Mr. Bigelow formed a partnership with W. W. Thompson, but Mr. Thompson was never active in the business. Mr. Bigelow had a good legal practice, but it was as a promoter and organizer in finance and politics that he made his mark.

Head of His Family.

His father dying when Thomas was a mere youth, he became the protector of the family, and devotedly to his death did he perform this duty. It is said that his devotion to his mother and his sisters and brother was the cause of his never marrying. He is survived by his brother, Edward M. Bigelow, and the following sisters: Miss Mary L., Virginia, wife of A. L. Schultz, and Elizabeth M., wife of H. H. Woods.

He was a member of the East Liberty Presbyterian church, of which the Rev. Frank W. Sneed is pastor. Mr. Sneed was in Atlantic City last night when he heard of Mr. Bigelow's death and he telegraphed that he would leave immediately for Pittsburgh to conduct the funeral services, which will probably be held tomorrow afternoon.

STRENUOUS POLITICAL LIFE OF MR. BIGELOW

For Four Years He Battled Continuously and Shattered His Health.

Thomas S. Bigelow made his reappearance in active political life four years ago, and since then had been occupying the center of the stage.

A number of years ago, when Mr. Bigelow was city solicitor, he took an active interest in Republican politics. With his retirement from office, he dropped out of the political arena and was lost to public view, except in a business way, until June, 1900. He reappeared then as a defender of his brother, E. M. Bigelow, who was ousted from the office of director of the department of public works. Even in that bitter fight little was seen or heard of him.

With the ripping of his brother, Mr. Bigelow set to work to break up the organization then in control of the city and county. What he accomplished is a matter of history. An alliance was formed with Senator M. S. Quay and much assistance was given the Republican state leader in the election of members of the legislature in Western counties. So quietly was the work done that but few knew of the activity of Mr. Bigelow until he appeared at Harrisburg in January, 1901, at the organization of the legislature of that year. Mr. Bigelow rendered Senator Quay much service in securing his re-election. Their friendship continued until the death of the Beaver statesman on May 28 of this year, and the Pittsburgher was one of the pallbearers.

Fight on Ripper Bill.

One night after the re-election of Senator Quay, Mr. Bigelow and his brother appeared at the Lochiel hotel in Harrisburg. There were rumors that the legislature was to be requested to give Pittsburgh a new charter with a ripper attachment. Mr. Bigelow was asked about the truth of this statement, and promptly said that it was true. He said that he was there to start the fight and frankly admitted that his purpose was largely one of revenge. It was his desire to restore his brother to the head of the department of public works and wrest the control of the city and county from the Republican organization then in power.

The fight over the ripper legislation was only less strenuous than the battle which followed at home. With the enactment of the new charter and the unusual conditions which resulted, there was a political upheaval in Pittsburgh. It was found that the organization of the Citizens party followed in December. John B. Larkin was made the Citizens-Democratic candidate for controller, and councilmanic tickets were put up in nearly every ward. The first victory was scored in February, 1902.

Won Another Victory.

Early in the summer of 1902, the Citizens and Democrats named candidates for congress, judges, senators, assemblymen and the numerous county offices to be filled. There was another strenuous battle made by the Republican organization to retain control, but it lost its entire ticket, with the exception of several nominees for assembly.

Flushed with success, the Citizens party came up to the opening of the first campaign for recorder under the new charter. There was much conferring about a suitable candidate. When Mr. Bigelow finally announced that his preference was William B. Hays and proceeded to nominate him in the Citizens city committee, there was a breaking of old ties. Many of the men who had fought under the Citizens banner in the other battles withdrew on the ground that the party was retrograding.

There was a fight made for the Democratic nomination, George W. Guthrie being made the candidate of the Democrats, who believed that reform could not longer be gotten by fusion with the Citizens. Mr. Bigelow managed the fight and succeeded in having Mr. Hays made the Democratic nominee.

The Republicans named John C. Haymaker, and many of the former Citizens and some of the Democrats supported him. Pittsburgh has never witnessed such strenuous politics. Mr. Bigelow managed that campaign, and when Mr. Hays had been elected, his campaign manager was a physical wreck. For a time there were fears for his life, but he was a good fighter and he won that battle, but never regained his health. All through the administration, until recently, the fighting continued and the many responsibilities were thrown on the shoulders of Mr. Bigelow.

Fought Until the Last.

Last fall Mr. Bigelow sought to gain control of the balance of the offices in the county government. The Republicans had been reorganized, and under new leadership fought a winning battle. Although a sick man, Mr. Bigelow gave every minute of time he could afford and suffered a further depletion of physical force.

This spring there was a contest for control of councils, with Controller Larkin leading the fight for the Orphans, a party he had organized with which to fight the Citizens. Mr. Bigelow was the recognized leader of the Citizens, and as such was forced to take a more active part in the struggle than his physical condition permitted.

Almost every day since the February election he spent the morning at his offices in Fourth avenue. There he was besieged by every man who wanted something at the hands of the administration or had a grievance. It would have been wearing on a well man. He was ever easy to see and he tried to please all who came to him. It was seldom that he was not calm. Even in the hottest of battles he rarely lost his temper. He took all things philosophically. When political fortune turned against him, he never failed in courage, but prepared for a new attack on the enemy. When asked to explain some political reverses, his answer was ever:

"There is nothing certain in this life but death and taxes."

MADE A BIG FORTUNE OUT OF RAPID TRANSIT

Mr. Bigelow Foresaw the Growth of the City and Profited Thereby.

Mr. Bigelow was a pioneer in local rapid transit, looking far ahead and seeing many chances for rich investment. His first venture in the street car business was when he went on an $18,000 note for Burns & Reilly, a firm which operated an omnibus line across the Point bridge to the West End. The two Burns', William and John, John C. Reilly and Mr. Bigelow organized the West End traction line, Mr. Bigelow holding a one-third interest. Later William Burns sold his interest to J. D. Callery, Sr., and the Semple estate. After operating the road for 22 years it was sold in 1900 to a syndicate headed by M. K. McMullin, Mr. Bigelow receiving as his share a check for $1,260,000. This road always declared an annual dividend of 80 per cent and was one of the best investments Mr. Bigelow made.

His next venture, which was marred by one of the bitterest fights of his life, was in the Pittsburgh traction line which succeeded the Pittsburgh, Oakland and East Liberty horse car line. It ran from Market street up Fourth avenue to Grant and out Fifth avenue. The fare was 15 cents to the terminus, in East Liberty.

Enlisted Philadelphia Capital.

Bigelow saw the opportunities in the development of the road, and making a trip to Philadelphia, succeeded in enlisting the Widener and Elkins interests in the scheme to convert the road to a cable line. John D. Gordon, a street car conductor, also gained an interest in the road and superintended the construction of the cable system.

C. L. Magee, cousin of Bigelow, held a three-tenths interest in the new cable line, and when the road became a paying one Magee and William Flinn and others organized a company to build a parallel trolley line out Forbes street, known as the Duquesne Traction Company. Bigelow objected, but Magee refused to give up his project and a fight that lasted two years began in councils to prevent the new company from securing a franchise. Unsuccessful in opposing Magee in councils, Bigelow carried the contest to the courts, but Magee won there. The Pittsburgh Traction Company then reduced its fare to 3 cents, and this brought the rival line to terms. Magee making a compromise with the other company and effecting a consolidation of the two. Bigelow sold out his interest in the Pittsburgh Traction Company at a sacrifice. He received for his stock between $200,000 and $300,000, although this property is now reputed to be worth $3,000,000.

Believed in Elevated Roads.

His last venture was in 1901, when he originated and formed a company to build a system of elevated roads to the East End and Oakland. A law was enacted by the legislature and the charters obtained, but the ordinances were held up in councils. Bigelow had planned the consolidation of the elevated roads with the Mellon trolley line system, the latter lines to be used as feeders for the elevated.

While negotiations were pending with the Mellons the latter secured valuable franchises in Allegheny and sold these and their Pittsburgh lines to the Philadelphia Company. The day the sale of the Mellon lines was announced Bigelow attempted to have the elevated ordinances withdrawn from councils, but the opposition in those bodies refused to allow this and the ordinances died with the legislative bodies. The elevated company afterwards sold its charters to the Philadelphia Company for about $800,000. Bigelow then said that the company had not made a penny above what the charters had cost. Up to the day of his death he believed in the elevated railroad scheme and predicted that it was bound to come in Pittsburgh.

Mr. Bigelow is said to have left an estate worth between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000. He owned a considerable amount of real estate in different parts of the city. He was the principal stockholder in the East Liberty National bank and was connected with other financial institutions.

DEATH PREVENTED AN IMPORTANT MEETING

Director McIlvain Was to Give Thomas S. Bigelow Answer to Mighty Question.

The conferences which the leaders of the Citizen's party had been holding until recently with the directors of the Pittsburgh municipal departments and with the county officers were to have taken a decisive turn today. At 10 a. m. Thomas S. Bigelow was to meet E. J. McIlvain, director of the department of public safety, and other Allegheny politicians of the Citizens party. Mayor Wyman is sick in bed, but he was to be present, if able.

At one of the conferences held in Pittsburgh about three weeks ago Director McIlvain was present, as were the county recorder, D. J. O'Neil; the county treasurer, D. F. Collingwood, and the county controller, Robert J. Cunningham. It was decided, as was learned yesterday, that O'Neil and Cunningham should be candidates for the Republican nominations for the same offices they now hold, at the primaries next June. The other county offices, the registership and the clerkship of courts, are also to be vacant, but as the incumbents of those offices are Democrats it was evident that the Citizens leaders would have to find other candidates able to stand on a Republican platform. Treasurer Collingwood is under the law ineligible for re-election, and it had been decided that he should run for the Republican nomination for clerk of courts or county register.

The story goes that Director McIlvain was much surprised when informed at the conference that the Citizens leaders had picked upon him as the one who must contest in the Republican primaries for the nomination for clerk of courts or register, it being left to him and Collingwood to decide which it should be.

Mr. McIlvain's friends were saying last night that he protested, said he had no ambition to hold an elective office and was willing to throw his influence in Allegheny to any available candidate selected by the Citizens leaders. In the discussion it was finally decided that Collingwood should make a fight for the nomination for clerk of courts, and Mr. McIlvain was asked if he would consent to contest for the nomination for register.

Mr. McIlvain was to give his answer to Thomas S. Bigelow at 10 a. m. today in the office of the Allegheny department of public works.

MONTGOMERY'S SORROW.

Banker Expresses His Grief Over Death of Thomas S. Bigelow.

William Montgomery, cashier of the Allegheny National bank, was for many years one of Mr. Bigelow's closest friends.

"I have known Mr. Bigelow since I was a boy," said Mr. Montgomery last evening. "He was one of the most generous and charitable men I have ever known. Even long before he became a millionaire it was his custom to give without show and without hope of return in any way large sums to aid those whom he thought needy and worthy.

"Mr. Bigelow was a welcome visitor at any financial institution in the city. His methods of doing business were the most pleasant possible and he heartily appreciated a favor. He was never domineering, and it was a genuine pleasure to be able at any time to grant his wishes."

AS CITY ATTORNEY.

He Was a Practitoner Who Was Most Methodical in His Habits.

Judge Edwin H. Stowe, who was on the bench while Thomas S. Bigelow was city attorney of Pittsburgh, said last night that while Mr. Bigelow had practiced very little law of recent years, yet during his term as city attorney he attended to his duties as well as any lawyer could, watched his cases closely and was a good practitioner.

"I always admired Mr. Bigelow as a man," said Judge Stowe, "and while he was a good lawyer, yet his special bent seemed to lie in the direction of promoting large enterprises. He would never have been a wonderful success as a lawyer, but was better than the average and well liked by his clients for the methodical manner in which he handled their cases. I am sorry to hear of his death and know his many friends at the Allegheny county bar will feel likewise."

good will during military movements, and in my opinion, it is necessary to begin diplomatic negotiations with this object, which will be useful in the future. Once we have taken all measures in this direction, we can occupy ourselves with our military dispositions in case of war with England."

Two Corps Needed.

The expedition would consist of the army corps of Turkestan and of the trans-Caspian district—the one directed on Balkh, the other on Herat. A Russian commission, Kuropatkin says, has already found places for stores and managed for the timely supply of provisions.

After mentioning the troops to be employed, amounting to 115,000 men, Kuropatkin concludes: "I should prefer to begin the campaign in November, as the weather is healthiest for the men and all Russian ports will be frozen. A casus belli can at any time when required be found through a collision between the Afghan and Russian outposts."

"Kuropatkin's plan fails to take into consideration one of the most important elements," said a high army officer, in discussing it today. "That is the presence in India of the most remarkable genius for organizing men and fighting them when organized now alive—Gen. Lord Kitchener. Kitchener was sent to India for the express purpose of putting the country in a thorough state of defense and he has done much toward accomplishing that end."

England Can Buy Afghans.

Gen. Sir Henry Green, who knows India as well, if not better, than he does London, in commenting on Kuropatkin's plans, said: "The idea that Russia can seize India with an army of 115,000 men is not worth serious consideration. For every rupee Russia could offer the Afghan we could offer 10, and that is the only way to win over the Afghan, who is as unscrupulous as he is treacherous; and, moreover, the Indian officer has lost his cunning since I knew him, if he could not win the Afghans over to our side.

"Supposing, however, she got to the gate of India with her army of 115,000 men intact, her real difficulties would only begin. Long before she could get there we should have an army at Peshawar. Quetta is strongly fortified, and its defense would be strengthened and we should dominate both the Hyber and the Bolan passes.

"In three weeks the guards could be at Karachi from London, and at the same place we could concentrate all our oversea resources, while immediately behind us we would have the resources of 300,000,000 Indian people who would not go against us to support Russia."

KNOX IS SUGGESTED BY CHAIRMAN CORTELYOU

He Will Be Asked to Speak at Philadelphia—Latter Sees Manufacturers.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—(Special.)—Republican National Chairman George B. Cortelyou came to Philadelphia this afternoon and spent several hours discussing campaign plans with prominent manufacturers and others, and then returned to Washington. Chairman Cortelyou expects to come to this city again during the next 10 days for a more general conference with the Philadelphians, who will take an active part in the presidential campaign.

Fayette R. Plumb, for the Manufacturers' committee, after the conference, said: "Chairman Cortelyou assured me that he will work with us in the campaign."

The manufacturers will have a big mass meeting between September 20 and 25, and Mr. Plumb said that Chairman Cortelyou suggested that Senator Knox be the principal speaker, which suggestion was adopted.

Mr. Cortelyou also discussed the political situation with former Postmaster-General Smith. He is believed to have met former Secretary of War Root here.

In buying a piano, it is best to learn all you can about the quality of an instrument before inquiring the price.

But the house of Hamilton could not and would not tolerate any piano that was not up to the standard of this old and popular music establishment.

In offering the present lot of new upright pianos at $145 to $200, it is expected that customers will make comparison with the famous instruments so long identified with this house. And that's just what you are requested to do. HEAT RECORD GROWS LONGER

Seven Persons Succumbed to High Temperature and Three Were Prostrated.

RAIN PREDICTED FOR TODAY

Relief from the torrid heat which has held this section in its grasp since last Sunday is scheduled to arrive. Rain is predicted for this section today and tomorrow by the weather man, and a decided fall in the temperature is looked for as a result. Yesterday's high temperature caused seven more deaths in this county and three prostrations.

THE DEAD.

LOUIS R. FRAZER, aged 33, died of heat exhaustion at his home, 71 Logan street, last night.

JAMES MARTIN, aged 60, died yesterday of heat exhaustion at his home in McKeesport. He was overcome on Tuesday at West Newton.

EDWARD SMITH, aged 42, a negro, died of heat exhaustion at the Duquesne Steel Foundry Company's plant in Coraopolis yesterday. He had a wife and six children.

NICHOLAS BERLICH, aged 40, a laborer on the Brilliant cut-off, was found dead in bed at his home, 5704 Hamilton avenue, yesterday morning. He was prostrated by heat on Tuesday.

INFANT CHILD of Martha Wimorch, a prisoner at the workhouse, died there yesterday of heat exhaustion.

UNKNOWN CHILD was reported to the coroner as being found dead of heat exhaustion at Esplen yesterday.

DROWNED.

H. W. FURNESS, aged 24, operator at the Jacks run tower of the Fort Wayne railroad, was drowned in the Allegheny river yesterday afternoon while seeking relief from the heat. He boarded at 508 Florence avenue, Avalon. His home was in McCool, Ind.

THE PROSTRATED.

NICHOLAS WOLD, a McKeesport hotel proprietor, was overcome by heat while walking in the street yesterday at McKeesport.

STEVAN M'ALEER of 105 Grantham street, Allegheny, was overcome by heat at Fifth avenue and Smithfield street yesterday morning and removed to the Homeopathic hospital.

MRS. ALBERT MAHLER of 2715 Larkins alley, South Side, was prostrated by heat while crossing the South Tenth street bridge yesterday. She was removed to her home.

The house in which Berlich was found dead is the same one in which Dusan Melic, who shot and killed Policeman Andrew Kelly, was arrested. Melic is under sentence to be hanged in the county jail yard next week.

The highest temperature registered yesterday fell nearly five degrees below the maximum recorded on each of the three previous days of this week. The maximum yesterday was 85 degrees and the minimum 69. During the morning there was a light fall of rain, amounting to .06 of an inch. This helped to cool the atmosphere, but later in the day the sun's rays began to burn, and the mercury again went up rapidly.

In the mills and stores the heat caused the employes to suffer again yesterday. At the Edgar Thomson steel works "spell" hands were put to work to help out the regular men, and yesterday it was stated that practically four times as many men were working on the two turns as ordinarily would be at work in cooler weather. Only one case of heat prostration has so far occurred at the plant.

The weather was reported somewhat cooler in the far west yesterday, but in many cities the mercury again reached the top notch. At Cincinnati it was 90; Oklahoma City, 92; Cairo, 88; Louisville, 92, and El Paso, 90 degrees.

FORUM CLUB HAS OUTING.

Kingsley House Organization Enjoys a Day at Lillian Home, Valencia.

The Kingsley House Forum club had an outing yesterday at Lillian Home, the summer home at Valencia, where the children of the Kingsley house neighborhood are taken for weekly visits. In the afternoon a ball game was played between the team from the Kingsley A. C. and a picked team from the Forum club, the score being 11 to 8 in favor of the Kingsley A. C. There were other games and contests in which the members of the Forum club took part.

Dinner and supper were served in picnic fashion in the woods near Lillian Home. The committee of arrangements included Sol Leff, chairman; Sol Finklehor and Joseph Wilmer. All the members of the club wore a badge of the club colors, orange and black.

At a business meeting yesterday Sol Leff was elected chairman of the board of trustees of the Forum club. The first regular meeting of the club this season will be held on Friday evening, July 29, at Kingsley house.

DETECTIVE IS FINED.

Private Peace Preserver at Glassport Sentenced by Council President.

William Welsh, employed by the Pittsburgh Steel Foundry Company at Glassport as a detective to preserve order during the strike, was arrested at 3 o'clock yesterday morning by Acting Chief of Police Edward McGowan. Supt. Duncan McDougal attempted to get him out on bail, but failed. Last night he was given a hearing before President of Council Patrick Kelly of Glassport and fined $25 and costs on three charges—disorderly conduct, carrying a concealed weapon and being a suspicious character.

Much feeling was aroused among the foundry company officials on account of the prisoner being given a hearing before the president of council, when there is a committing magistrate, George F. Pastre, in the borough. Supt. McDougal was refused the privilege of paying Welsh's fine and he was committed to jail to await habeas corpus proceedings in court today.

Landmark Has Been Razed.

The old Port Perry school house, a landmark and the first school house between Pittsburgh and Elizabeth, will be a thing of the past after today, as a gang of workmen commenced razing the building yesterday to make room for additional tracks which the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company are having laid at Port Perry.

Bridge Is Completed.

The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad Company's viaduct at Turner station, McKees Rocks, was completed and opened for traffic yesterday afternoon.

Candidate for President Evicted From Headquarters

One candidate for president of the United States has already struck rough sledding in his campaign. He is George Washington Hall, editor of the Pittsburgh Independent, a newspaper published in the interests of the colored race. Hall represented himself as the "colored man's candidate" and hoped to cut an important figure in handling 2,000,000 colored votes. Yesterday he was evicted from his headquarters at 1411 Wylie avenue for non-payment of $45 rent. The convention which gave Hall the presidential nomination was perhaps one of the most unique that ever sat in this country. He announced his candidacy and called the delegates to meet in Forbes street, Turner hall. The janitor of the building and himself were the only persons present. The janitor did not have much of an ambition for political honors and threw his solitary vote for Hall, who declared himself nominated by acclamation.

MOTHER-IN-LAW SHOT TO SETTLE A GRIEVANCE

Family Quarrel Resulted in an Affray That May Be a Murder.

While trying to adjust family differences Samuel Pornton, aged 33, a negro coal miner, was shot and killed by Mrs. Lizzie Nolan, his mother-in-law, at Cecil Tuesday night shortly after 8 o'clock. The woman is under arrest at the county jail charged with murder. Coroner McGeary is making an investigation of the case and the inquest will be held Friday.

Last Saturday a daughter of Mrs. Nolan married Isaiah Christon, a friend of Pornton's. Tuesday afternoon the couple quarreled at their home in Rising, Washington county. Mrs. Christon returned to the home of her mother at Cecil. Her husband and Pornton followed her there for the purpose of adjusting their differences and persuaded the bride to return to Rising.

Mrs. Nolan took her daughter's part in the trouble and a general quarrel resulted. Pornton was ordered out of the house by Mrs. Nolan. This angered Pornton and he caught hold of Mrs. Nolan and tore her clothing off her. Mrs. Nolan secured a revolver and shot him through the body and he died two hours later.

Constable Martin Nugent was summoned to the house and he placed Mrs. Nolan and Christon under arrest. Christon was released on his own recognizance and Mrs. Nolan was taken to jail. The woman said that Pornton threatened to kill her in their scuffle and for that reason she armed herself and shot him.

Shade Your Porch, But Don't Pay Too Much for It.

That's our reason for quoting the following prices on Vudor Porch Shades—they are at once the most delightful of shades and the prices are just as reasonable as can be.

Right here let us tell you that we have no bamboo porch shades—will not have any this season, and very probably will not have any next season. Pittsburg people have come to the conclusion they are too cheaply constructed.

These Vudor Porch Awnings are put together very strongly; they will last many seasons; they are mottled shades, in olive and natural. We also have a very pretty dark green. This green being shown in all the following widths with the exception of that of 4 feet. All these Vudor Shades are 8 feet in length.

We offer 4 feet wide Vudor Shades for $2.00.
We offer 6 feet wide Vudor Shades for $2.75.
We offer 8 feet wide Vudor Shades for $3.50.
We offer 10 feet wide Vudor Shades for $5.00.

NOTE—During the remainder of July and through August we will make Striped Cloth Awnings to order, using the very best galvanized iron fixtures, at a discount of 25 per cent from regular prices.

The Proper Bathing Suit.

All Pittsburg, it seems, is getting away to some one or the other of the seaside resorts, and if you are going over on any of the excursions tonight there is plenty of time to come in and get a bathing suit.

It's ever so much more satisfactory to own your own suit than to get into any suit that's handed you at the bathhouse; besides it doesn't cost you so very much more.

Thursday, July 21, 1904.

The Gazette desires to call the attention of those of its readers who contemplate summer trips to the announcements of the many summer resort hotels published on page 12 of this issue.

There is reason to anticipate that the mission of the Vladivostok cruiser squadron, which has entered the Pacific by the Tsugari straits, is to intercept commerce between America and Japan, after the manner of the Russian vessels operating in the Red sea. The Vladivostok vessels have the advantage of unquestioned regularity and may not be accused of piracy. It has been Russia's claim that the war was promoted by the United States and Great Britain, and if contraband should be discovered passing from either country to Japan it would be heralded as confirmation of the accusation, and the Russian intent is obviously to create a diversion that will mitigate the humiliation of crushing defeat at the hands of Japan alone.

Foreign Minister Delcasse's note to the vatican demanding withdrawal of the order of removal for Bishops Geay and Kordez is regarded in the nature of an ultimatum, since M. Delcasse states that non-compliance will be followed by the severance of all relations. The vatican will probably take time for mature deliberation before making reply, but it is improbable that it will recede from its position. The abolition of the concordat of Napoleon may, therefore, be considered imminent and another convulsion in France is probable, though there is reason to believe the republic will come through triumphantly and more firmly established. There is not much meat in the criticism of the young Count Boni de Castellane that the foreign minister is without his rights in carrying on the correspondence during the parliamentary recess.

The bolt of Oscar Straus of New York from the Democracy, so closely following that of the chairman of the state committee of Iowa, make more evident the futility of the party's attempt to straddle the money question. The Iowan bolted because Judge Parker is in favor of the gold standard, and Mr. Straus because the party did not have the courage to indorse the gold standard in its platform. Thus it is easy to see how both the gold men and the silver men in the party have been alienated in the attempt to get from under one of the leading questions of the campaign. If there is one thing the American people admire more than another it is manliness, and there is nothing manly in the way the Democrats have tried to escape the results of their eight years of folly. In their efforts to win the eastern states with a gold candidate they have lost the west, and their failure to boldly declare for the principles which their candidate holds, they have failed to win the eastern votes they were fishing for. The party is routed before the battle fairly begins.

Lovers of justice everywhere, and particularly in America, will rejoice that at last Mrs. Florence Maybrick has been granted full freedom. There was so much doubt of the guilt of Mrs. Maybrick that her case has become celebrated, and it has brought particularly to the attention of the world the great difficulty of a condemned person securing release under the English law, no matter how evident may be the innocence of the victim. For 15 years Mrs. Maybrick has been in prison under a sentence that had every indication of injustice. Her husband died of arsenical poison, and she was convicted of his murder, notwithstanding the fact that it was shown conclusively that he had been a confirmed user of the drug for years. The trial judge, in his charge to the jury, practically ordered her conviction on this flimsy testimony. The whole sympathy of the people of the United States was with the prisoner and every possible effort was made by the state department to secure her release, but without result until now. That Mrs. Maybrick is now free is undoubtedly due to the influence of King Edward, who has shown himself to be a much stronger sovereign than expected. He has taken upon himself more of the cares of the empire than it was thought possible for a king of England to assume, and he has endeared himself to his subjects by his many acts. His action in the case of Mrs. Maybrick will also give him a warm place in the hearts of his American cousins.

International Law Violated.

There seems to be no escape from the proposition that the operations of Russian fleet steamers are a violation of international law. Their presence where they are is either an infraction of the treaty of London or else they are guilty of piracy. The treaty of Paris of 1856, which terminated the Crimean war, neutralized the Black sea. Russia took advantage of the war between France and Germany to protest against the restrictions of that treaty and claimed the right to place warships in the Black sea. By the treaty of London, concluded in 1871, that right was conceded, but it was provided that the Dardanelles would be closed to the warships of all powers. Now, if the Smolensk and St. Petersburg are warships, they had no right to pass through the Dardanelles, and if they were not, they have no right to visit and search neutral vessels. Even if their character justified them in making seizures the captures actually made are of questionable validity. The law of contraband of war does not authorize the seizure of the mails by wholesale nor the capture of munitions of war consigned to a neutral port. It is asserted that the munitions of war on the Malacca were consigned to Hongkong and belong to the British government. Acts of that kind may, however, be committed by mistake, as has happened before now with British war vessels, in which case explanations and a sufficient indemnity ended the matter. The depredations of the Russian volunteer fleet steamers do not, however, appear to have any legal color. It is a sinister fact that they sailed under sealed orders and their commanders did not know what they were to do until they had passed the Dardanelles. The affair wears the look of being intentionally contrived by the Russian authorities to cause European complications.

British public opinion is tremendously aroused over the matter, and there can be no doubt that steps will be taken to protect British shipping from unjustifiable acts by the Russian navy. Already the Mediterranean squadron has been ordered from Malta to Alexandria and two fast cruisers have been dispatched to the Red sea. Russian prizes must be brought either to the Baltic or into the Black sea. The latter is hardly practicable, so that the captured steamer Malacca is now being taken the long circuit about Europe to Libau, in the Baltic. It may be that the British government will practice patience and await the decision of the Russian prize court at Libau, but it is not impossible that the Russian steamers themselves may be overhauled and made to show their authority, with the chance that they may be taken into custody if not commissioned in accordance with international law. This is not likely to occur, because it is the policy of England to confine the war to its present area and to prevent European nations from being drawn into it. But while for this reason it may forbear to interfere in the case of the captures already made, it is altogether probable that her merchant vessels will hereafter be given safe convoy through the Red sea.

Protection for England.

There is considerable food for thought in the report of Mr. Joseph Chamberlain's commission which has been investigating the fiscal question in Great Britain. The commission gives it as its opinion that the depression in the iron and steel industry of Great Britain is due to the absence of tariff protection, while the tremendous growth of that industry in America is due to the fostering influence of the protective tariff. In conclusion, the commission advises the levying of duties upon imports from other countries, giving preferential rates to British colonies which give similar preference to the mother country.

This conclusion is precisely the fiscal doctrine with which Mr. Chamberlain has created such a sensation in the United Kingdom. It acquires more weight, however, as the result of an exhaustive inquiry by a commission of leading citizens and publicists, including Mr. Alfred Moseley, who has conducted two commissions through the United States in the pure spirit of dispassionate inquiry. Other gentlemen on the commission are not so well known on this side of the Atlantic, but their names command respect in England.

In this country the report attains political significance almost equal to that attaching to it in Great Britain. It comes as a remarkable tribute to the wisdom of the Republican policy of protection at the moment that the Democratic national convention has declared unalterable opposition to the protective principle as a "species of robbery." These English publicists and business men—all of whom have been free traders—are compelled, after careful investigation, to admit that the prosperity of America, in contrast with the depression in England, has been due to the application of that principle.

Mopping Up the Tide.

It may be remembered that Mrs. Partington was admirable at a slop or a puddle, but failed when she had to deal with the rising tide. Mr. Larkin is now exposed to a similar limitation of capacity. Our bustling controller is excellent when he is engaged in adding up the items of a bill to find whether the total is correct as represented, or in scrutinizing vouchers and ascertaining whether just such quantities of material as were charged for were in fact received. In all the proper work of his office he is the right man in the right place, but there are times when he is apt to bring his mop into play against the rising tide, and his determined resistance to filtration appears to be an occasion of this kind.

It is not surprising that eight years of examination, study and reports by special commissions and eminent experts cannot make any impression upon his mind. How could mere argument and reason be expected to influence him when even the explicit decisions of the courts never touch him. He says: "My duty requires me to look after the revenues of the city and see that they are judiciously expended." The courts have several times held differently and have advised him that he is merely an accounting officer and that it is none of his business whether expenditures are judicious or not but simply whether they are made in accordance with law and are honestly and correctly vouchered. We have a mayor and city council charged with the duty of seeing that expenditures are judiciously made and whether they discharge that duty well or ill the controller has no right to arrogate to himself their functions. Of course, this lack of right will not repress his activity, for, like Mrs. Partington, it is his instinct to put everything to rights as he thinks it ought to be, and he is bound to be everlastingly at it, right or wrong.

The action of the people in approving the bond issue does not count with him because it was done without his permission or consent, but as it is effectual in law he cannot permanently obstruct the improvement. The community wants pure water, and whenever the question is submitted to them they declare in favor of it. Delay will only increase the ultimate expense, and meanwhile the community is enduring tremendous loss from the typhoid fever plague. While the controller talks and figures that plague is growing worse and worse, and his policy of obstruction tends to perpetuate its ravages and increase the number of its victims. But he is contending against the rising tide. The people have approved filtration and the controller cannot overrule their action.

Strike Is Settled.

There will be general rejoicing over the termination of the meat packers' strike, pending final settlement of the questions at issue by arbitration. The disturbance was causing loss and inconvenience to stock raisers on the one side and consumers on the other, in addition to the losses of those immediately concerned in the controversy. The agreement to arbitrate restores the status quo ante and causes a resumption of work and trade. In addition, it avoids the prospect of turbulence that was daily increasing with the efforts of the companies to work with non-union labor.

By the terms of the agreement reached all striking employes will be taken back in their old places if they return to work within a definite specified time. This may be construed as a victory for the men. Other questions are to be arbitrated, which implies a final compromise between the demands of the employes and the desires of the employers. We may assume this compromise will be just to both.

We are certain that both parties to the agreement will find arbitration far more satisfactory than "fighting it out." In this aspect there is indication of the decided progress of the conciliatory method in American industrial circles. There can be no question that public thought and sentiment has reached advanced ground on this subject, a condition greatly promoted by the Civic Federation section, so long presided over by the late Senator Hanna, and by the intelligent investigations of Labor Commissioner Carroll D. Wright. Strikes ought never to occur, and the hope is permitted that they will soon become obsolete.

Thomas S. Bigelow.

While the death of Thomas S. Bigelow was shockingly sudden, it was not wholly unexpected by his intimate friends, who knew he had been suffering from a serious form of heart disease for several years. Mr. Bigelow will be greatly missed from many circles, social, business and political, in which he had been an active leader, and by a host of friends made during his long and successful career in this city.

Thomas S. Bigelow was at one time city solicitor of Pittsburgh, the only paid official position he ever held. He had acted as a member of a number of public commissions, however, giving his services freely to the public. His principal business success was in the street railway field, he having been for years one of the controlling factors in the West End Passenger Railway Company. He had many other investments. His judgment was sound in financial matters and his methods conservative.

Mr. Bigelow, after being active in city and state politics for some years, withdrew from public participation in campaigns and devoted himself to his business interests. He re-entered politics five or six years ago, organizing and promoting the Quay Republican club. Later he became interested in the Citizens party movement, and for the past two years had been the central figure in that movement. He will be best remembered, however, as a public-spirited citizen, who, while immersed in private business, found time for activity in many directions.

As soon as Candidate Davis arrived at Esopus yesterday he declined to be interviewed. Environment has a great influence, but it's a good bet that Col. Bryan could stand on the front porch at Rosemount and talk for two hours without a pause.

If Russia has any intention of interfering with American shipping, she might as well be told right now that the N. G. P. will be mobilized by the end of this week, and ready for action.

Joseph Chamberlain says the decline of the iron and steel trade in England is caused by free imports. And yet our Democratic friends want to cut our tariff.

The release of Mrs. Maybrick is one more evidence that King Edward is taking a hand in British affairs. He's not a bad sort of a king, after all.

If the weather man had not told us it was cooler yesterday than the day before we would never have known it.

A New Castle robber returned his victim's watch after inspecting it. That is adding insult to injury.

Those Pirates of ours do well for cripples. In fact, one hardly sees that they are crippled.

Farmer Davis spent yesterday looking over Farmer Parker's fences.

Talked of in Gotham

By ALEXANDER DODDS.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 20.—The Democratic conferences at the Hoffman House came to an end today and again the eyes of the nation's Democracy are turned Esopus way for Judge Alton B. Parker and Henry G. Davis pushed their knees beneath the mahogany together today, for the first time. Esopus, for several hundred years but a cross roads village, promises to become one of the most prominent places in the country this summer, and before November it will grow more than it has grown in a century. And all because Judge Parker is the Democratic standard bearer, and has his farm on the outskirts of the village. The railroad officials in New York City are already figuring on schedules that will "let in" several extra runs to take the pilgrims to the free trade shrine and preparations are under way for two new hotels, a new depot and a few more stores.

William F. Sheehan, who is being dubbed Parker's press agent, in talking at the Hoffman House this afternoon about the Esopus boom, said the merchants are stocking up for a lively trade this summer and are even talking of installing a soda water fountain—one of the luxuries of civilization to which Esopus has remained a stranger. It is said that the stay-at-home policy used so effectively by the late William McKinley, is to be used by Judge Parker in the present campaign, and that he anticipates several large delegations from this city in the near future for the moral effect it will have upon the followers of the lagging Charles Murphy, leader of the Tammany forces.

Murphy Is But an Imitator.

Tammany does not need to tickle itself about the stand taken by Murphy in not congratulating Judge Parker upon his nomination for the presidency by the St. Louis convention. Of course his omission to do so after Mr. Cleveland, Hearst, Mayor McClellan and others of prominence have extended this harmless courtesy is all the more marked, but the wily leader of the striped cat is but following a good precedent. Gen. Grant, who was a candidate for the third term when Garfield was nominated in 1880 omitted the customary formality, and the action at that time was laid to chagrin.

Such men as former Senator David B. Hill and Arthur Pue Gorman say they thought Murphy, who is a big contractor, too astute to sulk. Around the city, by the way, they have a new name for Tammany now. It is called the "Contractors association" owing to the fact that the leaders of the big wigwam on Fourteenth street are all prominent contractors and have been using the Tiger's influence lately to land some big jobs. The Pennsylvania railway terminal in this city was awarded to a concern comprised of Tammany men.

For the Days of Long Ago.

Before starting for Esopus this morning, Henry Gassaway Davis, 81 years old, a multi-millionaire, found time in the midst of the bustle and heat of a Democratic conference, to sit at a desk in a parlor of the Hoffman House and write a letter to his brother "Tom." He idolizes the memory of his mother, but his affection for this bachelor brother at Keyser, West Virginia, is his life's romance, one filled with the pathos of the early struggles of two youths to support a family and over a half century of devotion to each other. Each writes to the other every day and Henry Davis the railroad magnate, would as soon think of going without sleep at night, as going to bed without sending his daily letter to "Tom" of the little country town. He will write to his most intimate friends by dictation but to his brother he always sends an autograph epistle.

Master of the Deep Seeks to Fly.

With two sets of wings and four wheels to operate them, John Holland, the man who realized Jules Vernes dream of "Twenty thousand leagues under the sea," seeks to solve the problem of aerial navigation. Without the means of gas bags and ballast he says he will make flying in the air safer than bicycle riding ever was. Mr. Holland today paid the final visit to his machine at a shop here, preparatory to having it boxed and sent to his home in Newark. The test is to be made somewhere on the Hackensack meadows. His invention is the result of many year's study and work upon the flying machine question and the principle he uses is one he evolved in the secrecy of his shop while still an Irish schoolmaster and before his experiments in submarine navigation had made his fame world-wide.

An Infant Swimming Prodigy.

The beaches which are crowded every day now have a regular attendant who is but one year old. Although he cannot walk he swims in the briny ocean. The little fish is "Tommy" White, son of Thomas White, who is better known in Nassau street as "Swipesey, the original newsboy" and "Swipesey" says that "Swipesey, Jr." is the heaviest, handsomest, strongest yearling that ever dodged a sand crab.

Each morning, dressed in his bathing suit, "Tommy" is carried down to the waves and as soon as he touches the water he seems instinctively to strike out and keep himself afloat. Women bathers watch the little fellow and shower all manner of attention upon him. The proud father so far has resisted all offers to make him one of the attractions of the Coney Island beach.

Big Demand for Chinese Punk.

Since the heat wave struck the city on Saturday afternoon, a plague of mosquitoes has settled upon Manhattan and the surounding boroughs. As a result life outdoors has become almost unbearable. Even Jersey City has sent up a wail because the bedroom nightingales, whom they have with them always, are displaying viciousness. Small stores are doing a large business in scented Chinese punk and in the residential section of the city tonight it is a common sight to see men and women holding a light piece to drive away the pest. Many are carrying the smoking brands with them upon the cars while going to the beaches.

The Quiet Observer

By ERASMUS WILSON.

There's a good time a-coming, so keep a stepping to the music, for if you haven't the step you can't break into the procession when it comes along.

General Miles says the temperance people could elect a president now if they would all get together.

But there's the rub. They won't get together and do business as one firm.

It is the same thing that keeps Christians from ruling the world and making it second only to Heaven as a home. There is much talk about the beauties and glorious results of church union, and each and every denomination is for it provided each and every other denomination will lay aside its peculiar doctrines and teachings and accept its creed, confession, or rules of faith.

So it is with the temperance people, they have various orders and branches, and instead of pooling their issues and coming to the front as one man they come in squads, each squad wanting to be the rallying squad around which all the others gather, and to which they all look for instructions and orders.

This sort of thing don't suit a successful army commander, and that is why Gen. Miles wouldn't accept a nomination by the Prohibition party for president.

* * * * *

If it is only for political power that the temperance people are looking, it is best for this country that they continue as they are. We have politicians enough, and to spare, as it is.

We could use better ones, but what assurance have we that the Prohibitionist would be any improvement over the average politician of the present?

We haven't any.

On the contrary we have reason to believe that the average Prohibition agitator would be more or less a failure as a politician. Not because he wouldn't do anything, but because what he did would be done according to his own peculiar notion of things, and with a view to giving the other fellow the worst of it.

If temperance people were more temperate they would be more successful as politicians.

However, these are the times for agitation and not for quietly enjoying the rewards that fall to the lot of those who have fought the battle and won out. At present the temperance soldier is fighting in squad formation and not in bold front battle array.

No doubt the time will come when the temperance squads will get together and give old alcohol a death blow. But they will have to get together so they may all rise up as one man. Then the man whom they select to personate, as well as represent them, will know that he has something behind him that is dependable.

* * * * *

Dear Quiet Observer: Your recent discussion, metaphysical and pathological, on the use of alcohol, was certainly interesting and instructive. As two correspondents have replied, giving widely divergent views, I am tempted to intrude for a brief space.

Of the correspondents referred to, one indicates the true solution of the individual's emancipation from slavery to a debasing habit—the opening of the moral perceptions owing to an ideal domestic environment. The other writer, pointing to all efforts of legislation and of precept, sees that despite them all, there is still more drinking than ever.

"Take away the demand for liquor," says this correspondent, "and the saloon's death-dealing days are numbered," concluding with the suggestion to make drinking a crime.

To take away the "demand" for liquor in the fullness of the meaning would mean that mankind had reached a state of social and intellectual development approaching the highest ideal. Liquor will be used as a beverage as long as it is manufactured. The endeavors of legislation to control human appetite are as absurd and as futile as to attempt to control the movement of the planets. The greater restrictions for the sale of liquor have invariably resulted in a greater volume consumed, and what is still worse, a greater increase in crime.

The Brooks law, framed as it was to give a safe and wholesome character to the liquor traffic, has given to our commonwealth in every city and hamlet speakeasies innumerable and disorderly houses and a greater number of people that drink, population considered, than any district in the world. One may wander through the continental cities of Europe and see every opportunity to obtain liquor, but with all such freedom very little drunkenness is apparent. Yet witness the difference in the cities of Great Britain, where excise laws are so drastic.

Members of regiments in the north of France when transferred to southern garrisons in the wine-growing districts for a time indulge freely in wine, but soon their drinking habits conform to those of the native, among whom it is a rare thing to see a case of intoxication. This is simply citing in a general way an infallible trait of human nature. The greatest freedom, in the highest sense, allowed the individual, the more orderly would society become—even in the use of liquor.

If every tax were taken from the manufacture of liquor; if every individual in Pennsylvania that desired to sell liquor were freely permitted without expense to do so, the ultimate effect would be the manufacture of pure liquors and not the villainous compounds sold today in thousands of illicit ways, which of themselves are productive of drunkards, and the freedom thus given to individuals to sell and drink would result in time to such an adjustment that the physical and moral effects of the liquor traffic would be the greatest indictment of the present restrictive legislation.

JAMES A. WARREN.

* * * * *

Mr. Quiet Observer: I have been an interested reader of the views expounded in your column on the temperance question.

I heartily indorse your views and am certain they are correct. This question, like all others, must be handled systematically. Conditions change and methods must be employed to suit the conditions. The saloons are here, legally, licensed, and favored by public sentiment.

The old method of cursing the saloonkeeper and all engaged in the business, and in fact all who do not by voice and vote work against the traffic, is a thing of the past. Thousands who do not believe the temperance question to be a political issue, are honest and sincere, while thousands in the liquor business itself cannot see that they are doing any harm. By uncalled-for criticism and misconstruction of motives we lose instead of gaining strength. The methods employed by the apostle Paul in the old days, and by Francis Murphy and others in our day, show that more good can be done by love than by hatred.

I have been a Good Templar for 15 years, and I believe firmly in its work and methods. It helped me when I needed just such influences for good, and I feel that the Good Templars have supplied most of the bone and sinew for temperance effort in the last half century. It has been the means of organizing the W. C. T. U., the Anti-Saloon league and the Prohibition party, and has furnished leaders in every refrom movement, such as Mrs. Rebecca Chambers of the W. C. T. U., Dr. Swallow, Jno. G. Wooley and Oliver Stewart of the Prohibition party, Edwin C. Dinwiddie of the Anti-Saloon league, Hon. Jno. Sobieska, Hon. S. B. Chase, Dr. D. H. Mann, Jos. Malins, Prof. Forel and others, many of whom are yet active in Good Templary and all of whom are still leaders in various departments of temperance effort. This shows more plainly than anything else the educational advantages of Good Templary.

In Pennsylvania alone it has pledged 275,000 people in the last half century, it has its juvenile organization for the children, its subordinate lodge, where the entire family may attend, its district or county lodge and its state grand lodge which met this week at Reading. Besides this it has its International supreme lodge for the world and at present has nearly 800,000 members—nearly 150,000 being in Germany—12,000 in Ireland—10,000 in South Africa—100,000 in Sweden and Norway—several thousand in Iceland.

The public press by its active co-operation and dissemination of truth, just as you are doing, is one of the greatest of all influences for good along temperance lines. May you grow and prosper.

Russia's Latest Move

The present war bids fair to lead to some fuller understanding concerning the status of the mails in time of war. Russia and Japan are both apparently acting upon the theory that all mails consigned to a belligerent port are subject to seizure as contraband of war, or at least to detention and search. Japan has contented herself with the seizure of mails sent out from Port Arthur. Russia has gone much further than that in stopping British and German ships in the Red sea and taking from them in bulk all mail sacks marked for Japan. Hostile dispatches, military orders and the like, excepting the messages of ambassadors, have been recognized as contraband, and, of course, subject to seizure. Not only is the transportation of them equivalent to the carrying of contraband goods, but the fraudulent transportation of them is regarded as a peculiarly hostile act, subjecting the offending vessel to the severest penalty of confiscation. Such is the argument of Sir William Scott. But a regular mail carrying vessel, which receives such dispatches in the ordinary course of mail carrying, in ignorance of their character, is not, according to Hautefeuille, subject to penalty. These principles apply, of course, only to hostile dispatches. Ordinary mails of commercial, personal or other non-belligerent character should certainly enjoy a different status, and would seem to be entitled to exemption from seizure when under a neutral flag.—New York Tribune.

What object the Russian government can have, at such a juncture, in stirring up irritation and hostility by interfering with neutral commerce passes all reasonable conjecture. The performance of the questionable cruisers in the Red sea is, at the best, so useless that the anger it has aroused, not only in England but in Germany, was so easily foreseen that it seems a gratuitous invitation to embroilment. The most friendly nation could not submit with complacency to the seizure of mails carried under its flag, and while Russia will probably make diplomatic reparation to Germany, the effect of this incident on German sentiment cannot be otherwise than unfavorable for Russia. The British resentment has as yet a less definite basis; but the known fact that British feeling against Russia was ready to break forth on any occasion makes it use more insensate to go out of the way to provoke it.—Philadelphia Ledger.

It is not easy to understand the purpose of Russia in letting loose these privateers unless it is inspired by a desire to bring some other nation, either Great Britain or the United States, into the fracas, and thus to give her an opportunity to end the war in Manchuria without the humiliation of yielding to Japan alone. There is nothing else to be gained by holding up the ships of neutral nations. Russia understands very well that she will not be allowed to blockade the high seas and to bring all ocean commerce to a standstill because of her little misunderstanding with Japan, and that least of all maritime nations will Great Britain consent to such a hold-up. But, as the Brooklyn Times has repeatedly shown, Russia cannot permit herself to be defeated finally by Japan, and she knows now that she cannot defeat Japan. Something must be done to "save her face," to maintain at least a portion of the prestige in Persia, Afghanistan and Thibet that she has hazarded so much to gain. She can afford to be defeated by Great Britain and Japan, but not by Japan alone. Besides, if she can embroil Great Britain in her quarrel, France is bound by treaty to come to her assistance, and the presence of an allied French fleet in the Yellow sea might prove of the utmost advantage to her in this crisis. It seems to be the determined purpose of Russia to drag other nations into the melee, and she may succeed. But if she does, the result will only be to make her downfall more conspicuously complete.—Brooklyn Times.

Russia, whatever motives may lie behind the seizures of Japanese mails in the Red sea on neutral vessels, German and English, has made a serious mistake in raising this issue at all. It was unnecessary. It accomplishes nothing. It cannot touch the main result of the war or affect it. It irritates, and irritates needlessly. Russia gains nothing and runs the risk of embarrassing controversy. Mere international law may lie on one side or the other. Mails are contraband of war, liable to seizure. Whether this was modified by the postal convention of 1878, freeing mails from seizure, or whether mails can be seized at all on neutral vessels plying between neutral ports, even under the doctrine of a "continuous voyage," these are all details. The main issue is that a great power in a great war cannot afford controversy over a small matter with neutral nations where no great military interest is at stake.—Philadelphia Press.

Whether the Russian cruisers in the Red sea have violated international law is not yet plain, the right of search and contraband seizure being quite universally acknowledged. The removal of mail from the German vessel seems to have been a questionable act. The letters were forwarded by another vessel, so little delay was caused, but the examination evidently ought to have been conducted on the ship where the mail matter was found. There seems no question of the Russian right to appropriate communications to the Japanese government. The passage of the Russian vessels through the Dardanelles is another subject of interesting controversy. They went through unarmed, as merchantmen, and were then armed and commissioned as war vessels. Russia can in this connection hardly be charged with anything worse than sharp practice.—Buffalo Courier.

Having failed so signally to crush the Japanese armies in Manchuria according to the original program, Russia seems bent upon creating a diversion of interest by adopting a program of high-sea seizures that are calculated to bestir the powers and to lead to complications. Whether this is a shrewd move to precipitate intervention, or to embroil the European governments, or to distract notice from the steadily successful campaign of the Japs cannot now be determined. Even if Russia remains strictly within her international rights in making these seizures in the Red sea, she has at best only a technical show of reason for them. Japan's campaign is dependent in no material degree upon her shipments by sea from Europe. She is fighting this war virtually upon the basis of her own resources. Such reprisals at sea as Russia has been engaged in of late, thousands of miles from the scene of hostilities, are likely to hamper British, German, French, Spanish and Italian trade rather than that of Japan.—Washington Star.

As Usual, Populist Objects.

A Missouri man who raised $1,000 worth of honey has been the subject of much congratulation and praise, but a Populist has written to the agricultural papers to say that the praise ought to go to the bees.—Philadelphia Ledger.

FABLES FROM THE NEWS.

The Beef Packer and the Strike Leader were holding a conference. Just as the wrangling was loudest, a Sad and Solemn-visaged Man entered the Room and demanded to be heard.

"Who are You?" indignantly cried the Packer and the Strike Leader in chorus.

"Gentlemen," replied the Intruder, "I am the Representative of the People who buy your Product, and therefore should have a voice in your deliberations. Without Me there would be no excuse for the existence of You."

"Humph, you give Yourself a great deal of importance," declared the Packer. "You are a rank Outsider. All You have to do is to pay your bills promptly, and we will run our own business to suit ourselves."

And the Sad and Solemn-visaged Man was promptly thrown out.

The Candidate and His Backer were sitting upon the Porch at Rosemount, when a travel-stained man dressed in a large Felt Hat, Broad Smile and death-like Pallor trudged up the Graveled Walk.

"Where have I seen that Face before?" inquired the Backer, scratching the Place where his Hair used to grow.

"Greet him kindly," said the Candidate. "I know him not, but perhaps we may need his Vote in November."

"Nay, now I remember," replied the Backer. "I presided at his Obsequies at St. Louis only a short While Ago. I don't care for that kind of Spirits in Mine. I think I have an Engagement with Myself in the Library."

"And I will join You," replied the Candidate.

Whereupon the two men entered the Sacred Portals of Rosemount, and the Smile on the Face of the Traveler disappeared as he walked around to the Back Door and asked the Cook for a Handout.

One Way of Looking at It.

Bryan is rendering the best service that it is in his power to render to the Democratic cause by proffering support in such a way as to make it plain as a pike-staff that he is laboring for the party's defeat. He is the most welcome traitor that ever came into anybody's camp. For if he came as a loyal friend striving in good faith to promote the election of Judge Parker he would do untold harm; while with nothing friendly about him but his disguise, which he assumes so carelessly that everybody can see the enemy beneath it, his activities will make it easier to elect Judge Parker.—New York Times.

L' ENVOI.

We promised that we'd gladly
  Give her three days off a week;
When admitted to her presence
  We were very mild and meek;
We endeavored to convince her
  That we always strove to please,
And we hastened for the doctor
  Every time she had to sneeze.

We put awnings at her windows
  And antique rugs on her door;
If her wages didn't suit her
  We were willing to pay more;
We implored her to apprise us
  Of the whims and fads she had,
So that we by yielding to them
  Might contrive to make her glad.

For a week our hearts were happy,
  For a week we went around
Boasting of our jealous neighbors
  Of the treasure we had found;
But our gladness has departed,
  She informed us yesterday,
That she guessed we didn't suit her
  And she'd not consent to stay.

MAN HAS ROUSED TURKEY

ublime Porte Is Gradually Realizing That America Is a Great Nation.

MINISTER'S PATIENCE TRIED

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, July 20.—In view of the fact that this government is pressing its demands on Turkey that discrimination against American interests in the Turkish empire shall cease, the Turkish series of diplomatic correspondence in the current volume of foreign relations is of timely interest.

It discloses the persistence with which Mr. Leishman, the American minister to Turkey, has acted and the extreme difficulties he has encountered in his efforts to negotiate with the sultan.

In the original instructions sent him by the state department, directing him to bring to the attention of the sultan the existing embarrassment to American educational and religious institutions in Turkey, Mr. Leishman was informed that the president was deeply in earnest in the matter, and, while instructed to approach the sultan in the spirit of utmost friendship, he was advised to impress on the sultan the fixed desire and expectation of the president that this country and its citizens be treated the same as the most-favored nation.

Turkey Is Waking Up.

In one of his communications to the state department Mr. Leishman expressed the belief that the Ottoman government gradually was awakening to the fact that this is a great and powerful country—slow to take offense but quite capable of enforcing its just demands. Minister Leishman's first troubles resulted from his efforts to secure a personal audience with the sultan which he had been directed to demand. Several weeks having elapsed after Mr. Leishman's demand for an audience with the sultan, Secretary Hay in a note to the minister stated that he had impressively informed the Turkish minister of the displeasure and amazement of the president at the manner in which his minister's request for an audience with the sultan had been treated. A week later Minister Leishman had an audience with the sultan. In a subsequent communication to the state department Mr. Leishman said that the difficulties experienced by the legation in securing action on even the most trifling and unimportant matters were shared alike by all the foreign missions.

In another dispatch Mr. Leishman said that existing conditions had ceased to furnish an excuse for prolonged delay in settling pending questions and that he had somewhat strained his instructions and had ventured pretty close to a threat that unless the matters were settled without further delay something unpleasant might happen.

Sultan Was Obdurate.

Later he informed the department that the sultan had taken a strong stand against complying with the demands of this government relative to schools, resting under the impression that no forcible measures could be taken without congressional action. One source of complaint was the minister's inability to hold personal interviews with the sultan.

It also is disclosed that pending the arrival of the American squadron at Beirut, where it was sent at the time of the attempt on the life of the American consular officer, Mr. Leishman said the sublime porte appeared to treat the expected arrival of the American warships as a friendly visit and no doubt would attempt to show the admiral the same attentions that ordinarily would be extended on a complimentary visit. But later the state department advised Mr. Leishman that the Turkish minister had informed the secretary of state that the Turkish government considered the presence of the American squadron in Turkish waters at that time a cause of excitement and asked its withdrawal, and that the Turkish minister was informed that the state department did not share that view; that the entire consular body regarded it as a protection; that America considered that its representations had not received the friendly attention it had a right to expect, and that compliance with the request for withdrawal, leaving all pending questions unsettled and interests unprotected, would have an unfortunate effect on the relations of the two countries.

Mr. Leishman replied that the policy of the sublime porte from the beginning had been to make light of the visit of the warships and he (Leishman) was strongly of the opinion that it would be a mistake to permit the squadron to depart before pending questions were settled.

MANY BRAKEMEN TO BE DROPPED FROM CREWS

Pennsylvania Railroad Will Hereafter Operate Freight Trains With Fewer Men.

Many freight brakemen employed on the Pennsylvania railroad will be dropped in order to reduce operating expenses. The latest move in the retrenchment policy put in effect some months ago was made yesterday, when an order was issued to drop one brakeman off each freight crew. Officials at the Union station had not been notified of the order up to last night, but it was stated that if men are being dropped at Harrisburg and Philadelphia it is likely that the same order will be put in effect in Pittsburgh.

In Harrisburg 100 men will be laid off, and a large number at Philadelphia. It is reported the company will hereafter have two instead of three brakemen to a crew on the middle division, and one man instead of two on all slow freight trains on the Philadelphia division. The regular brakemen laid off will be placed on the extra list and many extra brakemen will be discharged.

In a telegram received by The Gazette from Harrisburg it was stated that a secret meeting of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen was held yesterday afternoon in Harrisburg to determine what action will be taken on the latest order of the railroad officials. Another meeting will be held, at which a statement of the grievances of the members of the brotherhood will be prepared and sent to the national officials at Cleveland.

BEATEN BY CHINAMAN.

Russian Who Persisted in Entering a Laundry, Found Hostile Inmates.

Oertvich Brozkofsky, a Russian residing in Mifflin township, was badly used up by three Chinese laundrymen in Sixteenth avenue, Homestead, yesterday morning, and is in a serious condition from the effects of being struck on the head by a blunt instrument.

Brozkofsky, it is said, was under the influence of liquor, and while passing the laundry saw the Chinese at work. He entered the place and started a quarrel. The Chinamen threw him out, and when he attempted to enter the building again one of them struck him on the head with a piece of iron. The Chinese locked the door and fled and Brozkofsky was taken home.

SELECT COUNCIL HAD A BIG GRIND

Alleghenians Perspired Four Hours While Passing Batch of Routine Business.

ADMINISTRATION WON OUT

The administration faction in Allegheny select council waged an aggressive campaign yesterday afternoon in a session that lasted near four hours. It secured the enactment of all legislation on the program, but not until the councilmen had divested themselves of wilted collars and were overworked with splintering fans. As a result of the meeting the position of assistant chief clerk in the department of public safety has been created with a salary of $1,500 a year, the number of patrolmen will be increased from 85 to 95 and council has been authorized to issue $40,000 worth of electric light plant bonds.

The three ordinances embodying these measures were passed by a vote of nine to three, Councilmen Bealor, Beatty and Hock casting the dissenting ballots. An ordinance, introduced by John R. Hendricks, authorizing the director of the department of public works to lay water mains on 33 thoroughfares and giving preference to the labor of citizens of Allegheny, was passed unanimously. The following ordinances passed finally:

Authorizing the payment to Librarian E. E. Eggers and City Organist Casper Koch their salaries from April 1 to May 21, which were held up by City Controller James Brown because they were not residents of Allegheny when appointed; requiring the placing of all stop-cock and iron box coverings of water lines on a level with the ground; authorizing the grading and paving of St. Clair street, regrading and repaving of Federal street from Church avenue to Penn street, Ridge avenue from Rebecca street to Chartiers street and McClure avenue, from Preble avenue to Eckert street.

These resolutions passed finally:

Authorizing the preparation of plans and specifications for the repair and remodeling of the electric light plant and authorizing the work to be done; authorizing the public works director to accept a lease from the Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago railway to cross the right of way of the railway with electric light wires east of Woods Run, extending water mains on Preble avenue, Spruce, Benton, Harmon and Verona streets and Sassafras and Straubs lanes; authorizing the payment of $52.25 to Fred Lee, a janitor at Montrose pumping station for time lost by injuries received while on duty; requiring employes seeking pay for lost time by reason of being injured while on duty to make affidavit to councils how and when injuries were received, the length of time they were off duty and whether they get any money for accident insurance or from any beneficial association.

Under a suspension of the rules a resolution was passed requiring members who wish to introduce a three-fourths measure to give councils a written notice one month before such measure is introduced.

The ordinance authorizing the purchase of one 120 arc light dynamo and 125 enclosed arc lamps caused a long discussion. It provided that the purchases should be paid for out of the "temporary loan bond issue" instead of the electric light bond issue. It was amended to the effect that the payment be made from the latter bond issue, and council went into a committee of the whole and adopted the amendment. It was then passed finally.

Under the suspension of the rules a resolution was introduced specifying that no new positions nor bureaus shall be created nor salaries increased by councils during the current year. Among other measures introduced and referred were ordinances for the laying of a water main in McKee place, refunding the Pittsburgh Stock Yards Company $8,389.25 for water rent for the years 1902 and 1903 and for the payment of $1,053.78 to the Allegheny Garbage Company for the collection of Garbage, etc., from May 1 to May 13. An ordinance granting a franchise to the Allegheny, Evergreen and Millvale Street Railway Company on the Evergreen road was introduced by Morris Einstein. It was referred to the committee on corporations. Council then resolved to hold no more regular meetings until September and adjourned.

AMERICA IN THE LEAD THROUGH HIGH TARIFFS

The Chamberlain Commission Charges England's Vulnerable Condition to Free Trade.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

LONDON, July 20.—The report of Joseph Chamberlain's tariff commission on the iron and steel trades, arrives at the conclusion that the decline of the British iron and steel industry is due to the fact that the manufacturers of America and Germany have secured control of the home markets by means of high tariffs and an organized system of regulating their export trade; that they are in position to dump their surplus products on the British and other markets, irrespective of cost, and that the dumping could not be carried on except for the British system of free imports. The committee expressed the opinion that the situation can only be remedied by a system of tariffs arranged as follows:

(A)—A general tariff consisting of a low scale of duties for foreign countries, admitting British wares on fair terms.

(B)—A preferential tariff, lower than the general tariff, for the colonies, giving adequate preference to British manufactures and framed to secure freer trade within the British empire.

(C)—A maximum tariff consisting of comparatively higher duties but subject to reduction to the level of the general tariff.

The report, which is signed by 58 commissioners, is very bulky and gives the evidence of British manufacturers, the evidence given before the United States industrial commission on iron and steel industries, the organization and working of German kartells, and a vast amount of statistics, etc.

BISHOP UTTERS STERN REBUKE

Croatian Catholic Church Ordered Closed Until Scandal Is Ended.

MAY BE EXCOMMUNICATED

Bishop Richard Phelan has issued a stern statement to the Croatian congregation of the St. Nicholas Roman Catholic church in Allegheny, which has recently been the scene of riotous contentions. In his letter to the congregation he says:

It is with feelings of sorrow for the misguided people and of regret for the disgraceful conduct of some impious and insubordinate persons that we once more exhort you to desist from further opposition to authority and obey the church as true Catholics. The government of the congregation has been usurped by irreligious and perverse men who have disregarded all laws except their own wills, thereby violating the decrees of councils and synods, especially in the following:

1. The so-called trustees or committee entered upon their office without being legally elected or approved by the bishop.

2. The statutes of the diocese, which appoint the pastor ex-officio treasurer of the church and president of the church committee have been disregarded.

3. The law which strictly forbids debts to be contracted without the written approval of the bishop has also been disregarded. The result has been that the congregation is now heavily burdened with debt and may be soon seriously embarrassed if the people do not soon recover from their folly and obey those appointed by God to rule the church.

4. This self-constituted committee seems to have opposed every effort of the Rev. B. Bekavac, the lawfully appointed pastor, to enforce the laws of the diocese, treated him with disrespect, insulted him personally and endeavored to substitute regulations of their own in the parish for those of the church. They and their accomplices turned a meeting of the congregation, at which the Very Rev. Vicar General F. L. Tobin and the Rev. M. Ryan were our representatives, into a disorderly and insolent mob.

5. When the honor of the Christian religion and proper regards for the rights and office of the reverend pastor obliged us to suspend public worship and close the church, the same turbulent and lawless faction, having failed to intimidate by threats, did, in defiance of episcopal injunctions, open the doors of St. Nicholas' church Sunday, July 17, 1904.

We, therefore, declare all such persons as have been principals or accessories to the misdeeds which have disgraced the parish of St. Nicholas to be insubordinate and rebellious to their pastor and bishop, and we exhort all to return to the obedience of the Catholic church, separate from the enemies of religion, be guided by their pastor, organize St. Nicholas congregation as a congregation of Catholics governed by the laws of the diocese of Pittsburgh, elect a committee and conduct affairs as do other parishes.

Until you signify your willingness to put an end to the scandals that now exist and comply with these instructions, we command the church to be closed and forbid any priest to officiate in it under any pretext whatever.

KENTUCKY JUDGE DROWNS IN WATER KNEE DEEP

Upton Muir Perishes While Bathing in the Surf at Cape May, N. J.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 20.—Judge Upton Muir of Louisville, Ky., who was spending his vacation here, lost his life in the surf today while bathing. The judge entered the water directly in front of the Stockton hotel and had been enjoying his bath for about half an hour before he was drowned. He was in the water about knee deep and at a point where there are no gullies. Several persons on the beach saw him fall face downward, and as he did not immediately get up some of the bathers went to his rescue. He was unconscious and every effort was made to resuscitate him without success. Among the first to appear on the scene was Gen. J. Watts Kearney, who is a brother-in-law of the judge's widow, and with whom Judge and Mrs. Muir were staying in their cottage in Stockton avenue. The general placed the body in charge of an undertaker and then went to the cottage and broke the news to Mrs. Muir. The body will be taken to Louisville tomorrow. Besides the widow Judge Muir left two children.

The coroner's jury rendered a verdict of accidental drowning, believing that the judge probably was taken with cramps as the water was quite cool, or that death was due to heart failure.

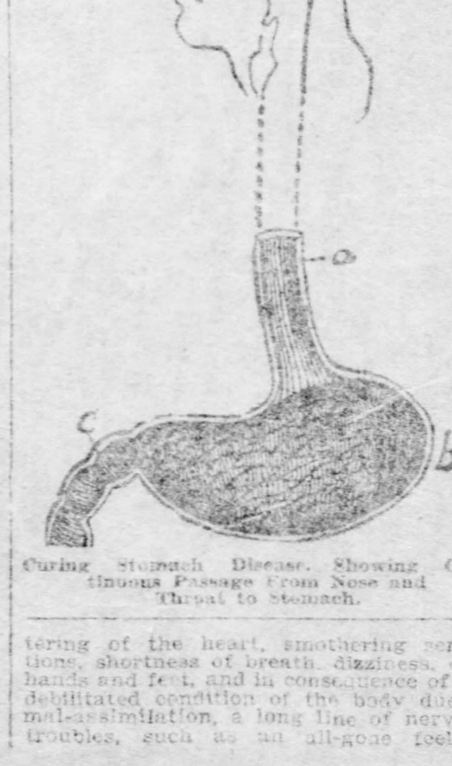
Stomach Trouble, Not Heart Disease.

The many symptoms resulting from stomach trouble frequently cause alarm to patients, as they simulate at times the symptoms arising from heart trouble. When the stomach is abnormally distended with gases, arising from stomach trouble, it encroaches upon the heart and lungs, producing palpitation or fluttering of the heart, smothering sensations, shortness of breath, dizziness, cold hands and feet, and in consequence of the debilitated condition of the body due to mal-assimilation, a long line of nervous troubles, such as an all-gone feeling, trembling of hands and limbs, hot and cold flashes, despondency, poor memory, loss of energy, etc. A physician versed in pathological anatomy knows that these symptoms are only functional or sympathetic, and that treatment must be directed to the stomach and not to the heart or nervous system.

STOMACH EXAMINED FREE.



Curing Stomach Disease. Showing Continuous Passage From Nose and Throat to Stomach.

Are you buying patent medicines, digestive tablets, swallowing baking soda, charcoal, pepsin, mint and other irritating tablets in vain efforts to obtain relief?

Are you willing to investigate a treatment that really cures this trouble, not merely relieves the distressing symptoms for an hour or so, but cures to stay cured?

The treatment devised by Doctor Byers, and used in his practice over 17 years, has for its purpose the cleansing and healing of the catarrhal conditions of the head and throat and preventing passage of poisonous mucus into the Stomach, as well as the restoration of the normal condition and functions of the Stomach.

Doctor Byers' treatment is the only one of its kind in existence and is both local and constitutional in character, as one without the other will not effect a permanent cure in these cases. It is not a patent medicine, sent out to one and all alike, but prepared to suit each individual case after a diagnosis of the case has been made by personal examination.

The many cures resulting from his method of treatment verify the claim that it is the only treatment that will cure serious Stomach trouble.

TO FORMALLY OPEN NEW WAYSIDE INN

Odd Fellows Will Gather in Great Numbers at Grove City Today.

Thirty thousand Odd Fellows from Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio are expected to attend the dedication of the Wayside Inn, for aged and indigent members of the order, at Grove City today. Special excursions will be run on all the railroads entering the town, and the gathering is expected to exceed in magnitude former celebrations which were held at the new home within recent years. The jubilee will be attended by all the prominent state officers of the organization. Preceding the formal exercises in the afternoon a parade will form at the railroad station and march to the farm, headed by the Patriarchs Militant, the military branch of the order.

All the entertainment incident to a country fair will be provided. The majority of the visitors will hold a picnic in the wood, where the bands will play, and an abundance of refreshments will be provided.

The building cost $60,000 and will replace an old farm house which has been used during the last two years. The farm comprises 105 acres and is beautifully situated about a mile from the town of Grove City, in Mercer county.

LORD CURZON HONORED.

Officially Presented With the Freedom of the City of London.

LONDON, July 20.—The freedom of the city of London, in a gold casket, was presented to Lord Curzon of Kedlestone, viceroy of India, at the Guild hall today. The hall was filled with a distinguished gathering of cabinet ministers, Indian princes, officials, members of the house of commons, peers and others. Lord Curzon, who was accompanied by Lady Curzon, was the subject of a memorable demonstration.

In the course of a speech Lord Curzon referred to Tibet. He said the Tibetans' insults could not any longer be borne. He was sent to India for the purpose, among other things, of guarding the British frontier, and he hoped that as a result of the expedition to Tibet the political unrest and intrigue in that country would cease and that harmonious relations between India and Tibet would gradually be built up. He clearly intimated his intention to return to India.

CANADA IS PREPARING.

Two and Probably Three Ammunition Factories Are to Be Erected.

WINNIPEG, MAN., July 20.—Word has been received from Ottawa that Sir Frederick Borden has about completed a contract with a firm in England to build a large ammunition factory near Winnipeg, and one probably at Vancouver, in addition to the one to be built at Ottawa, as recently published. The one to be built at Ottawa will produce 40,000,000 rounds annually.

At present all ammunition and cordite comes from England, and in event of war with the United Sattes, Canada would be cut off from a supply through interference of American war vessels. To guard against such a possibility, it is planned to build these factories.

MESSAGE OF FRANCE TO VATICAN AN ULTIMATUM

Ministers Hear the Papal Authorities Will Not Comply. Intention of Castellane.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

PARIS, July 20.—The text of Foreign Minister Delcasse's note addressed to the vatican was communicated to the council of ministers today. Its contents, semi-officially, are said to be: "The French government asks for the withdrawal pure and simple of the letters the vatican addressed to the bishops of Laval and Dijon, which are considered a breach of the concordat, as France had not previously been consulted relative to the dismissal of the bishops. In default of compliance the holy see is advised that the pontifical nuncio at Paris will receive his passports and that relations will be severed."

The ministers hear that the vatican will not comply, although not expecting an immediate issue. The Journal des Debats characterizes the note as an ultimatum and says that unless entire satisfaction is given, a complete rupture will follow immediately, the personnel of the French embassy to the vatican being withdrawn simultaneously with the delivery of the passports to the nuncio.

PARIS, July 20.—Count Boni de Castellane, as a member of the chamber of deputies, has addressed a letter to Premier Combes declaring the latter is trying to precipitate a separation between church and state during the absence of parliament, and says he intends to interpellate the government on the subject when parliament assembles.

FRANCE MAKES READY HER FIGHTING FORCE

Rush Orders Have Been Sent to All Arsenals and Ship Yards.

By PAUL VILLIERS.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]

PARIS, July 20.—France fears it is to be war, and is getting ready to take her part in it. Rush orders have been sent to all arsenals and shipyards to push work with vigorous dispatch. Officers and men of the Mediterranean and Atlantic divisions who have been on leave of absence have been ordered to report to their respective ships without delay. Every fighting ship in the French navy will be ordered to join either the Mediterranean or the Atlantic squadrons, which will be first called upon to fight if there is fighting to be done.

The French naval forces in European waters will be under command of Vice Admiral Eduardo Pettier, in command of the Mediterranean squadron, and Vice Admiral, the Marquis De Courthille, commander of the Atlantic squadron, in case of war. Admiral Pettier is one of the ablest men in the French navy. He is now 64 years of age. He commanded the French contingent during the outbreak in Crete, and at one time, in his capacity as senior flag officer, commanded the combined naval forces of the four powers.

The French ambassadors at St. Petersburg and London are in constant communication with M. Delcasse, minister of foreign affairs, and are keeping him in close touch with everything which goes on. All arrangements have been made to hurry reinforcements to Tonquin, and the Chinese squadron will in all probability be strengthened.

IOWA REPUBLICANS NAME STATE TICKET

Notably Harmonious Convention Gave Gov. Cummins a Great Ovation.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

DES MOINES, IA., July 20.—The following ticket was nominated by the Republicans of Iowa this afternoon: Secretary of state, W. B. Martin of Adair; treasurer, G. S. Gilbertson of Winnebago; auditor of state, B. F. Carroll of Davis; attorney general, C. W. Mullan of Black Hawk; supreme judge, H. E. Demer of Montgomery; railroad commissioner, N. S. Ketchum of Marshall; electors-at-large, Col. E. H. Ormsby of Palo Alto, and J. H. Trewin of Linn.

The convention was notably harmonious, every candidate but railroad commissioner being nominated by acclamation. The session was marked by an enthusiastic demonstration—that which Gov. Cummings got when his name was read in the resolutions before the convention. The delegates howled for several minutes until the governor was forced to come to the platform and make a short speech.

Gov. Cummings' speech was unique in that he aligned himself fully for the campaign with the dominant faction in the party, which is opposed to him. He declared himself in perfect accord with the address of Congressman Hepburn, a leading "stand patter," and as he continued in this harmonious vein, he was accorded cheer upon cheer.

The resolution includes nothing to give offense to the "Iowa idea" minority, although the majority had it in its power to do so. The resolutions indorse the Chicago national platform, the administration of President Roosevelt and the nomination of Roosevelt and Fairbanks.

GRAFT CHARGES FAIL.

Homestead Councilmen Were Willing to Face Charges but None Were Made.

No investigation will be made of the many bribery charges afloat in Homestead in which charges of graft are made. These charges are so numerous that at the last meeting of council the body was formed into a committee of the whole, with Louis Ratt as chairman, to investigate itself, having first taken the precaution that charges should be filed with the borough clerk, A. C. Hill, before 6 o'clock last evening.

No charges were filed. This being the case, under the resolution no further action can be taken.

RATE WAR STARTED ON STEEL MATERIAL

CLEVELAND, July 20.—(Special.)—Owing to a better demand from the building trades, the competition for finished steel material has become quite keen. The small mills have made a cut of $1 to $3 a ton, which the big mills have met. In one instance a cut of $5 was made by a small mill on structural iron, and for the first time in five years the price of steel rails has really been lowered by the reduction of the price on track supplies. The steel buyers declare that the indications all point to a better market by October 1.

HANS WAGNER AGAIN SAVES THE PIRATES FROM DEFEAT

ANOTHER NINTH INNING VICTORY

Wagner Once More to the Front With a Three-Base Hit—Bransfield Brought Him Home.

FINE DISPLAY OF PITCHING

There was another exciting finish to the ball game over at Exposition park yesterday afternoon, and the Pirates got away with a 4 to 3 victory, in the ninth inning. The finish was very exciting, but not quite as spectacular as the one of the day before. It was Hans Wagner who again pulled a victory out of a possible defeat, and the ovation tendered him by the 6,235 spectators must have made the Carnegie boy feel proud.

The game itself was not as well played as the one of Tuesday, because there were errors on both sides of the most costly kind, and both sides profited thereby in the way of runs. The Giants started out with a lead of three tallies, and the Pirates' task looked like a hopeless one, but Captain Tommy Leach cheered his men on and the uphill game they put up was pleasing to the big crowd. After the first inning the locals buckled down to work and there was not a misplay of any kind, the particularly pleasing feature being the clever work of Harry Smith back of the bat.

As inning after inning passed and the Giants found themselves unable to add to the three runs scored in the opening inning, they became desperate and resorted to base running in order to help out, but Smith blocked their every effort in that line of work. On three different occasions men who had reached first, acting under orders, tried for second, and on each occasion would Smith have the ball there ahead of them, and there was no question as to their being out; in fact, the play was so clean cut that the Giants could not enter a protest against the umpire's decision. Smith's throwing to the bases was perfect, and his display of catching was by long odds the most clever seen here in many seasons.

Smith also added to his fine display by making a clever play, with the assistance of Wagner, in the ninth inning, that brought a great cheer from the spectators. Dahlen, who was first up in the ninth for the Giants, drove the ball down into left field for what would be an ordinary single, but Kruger was a bit slow in his fielding and Dahlen turned the hit into a two-bagger. Here was a man on second and none out. Gilbert, the next batter, tried his level best for a hit, but the best he could do was to strike out, and on the third strike Smith, seeing Dahlen with a good lead off the base, snapped the ball down to Wagner, who blocked the base and put it on the Giant, and the result was a double play.

The pitchers for the afternoon were Flaherty for the Pirates and Ames for the Giants. Flaherty was eager to even up for that defeat of Saturday, and he managed to do it by putting up a fine display of pitching. He only allowed his opponents nine hits, which were so widely scattered that had there not been a mix-up in the opening inning the Giants would not have scored more than one run. For the Giants Ames, who has been out of the game for the best part of the season nursing a sore arm, pitched in splendid style and there was little evidence of a sore arm in his work of yesterday. He used a drop ball almost exclusively, and it was so effective that he struck out eight of the Pirates, accomplishing the clever feat of striking out five men in succession.

The Giants got their three runs in the first inning, which Bresnahan led off with a three-base hit to middle field and scored on Brown's infield single. Devlin's bunt was fumbled by Leach and there was a mix-up on McGann's sacrifice, Brown scoring. Mertes forced McGann at second and Devlin scored the third run of the inning on an out at first. After this Flaherty pitched such clever ball that the Giants could do nothing in the way of securing more runs, though they resorted to all sorts of strategy, but the fine work of Smith and the other Pirates blocked their efforts.

The Pirates' first run was tallied by Wagner in the second inning, when he hit to right for three bases and scored on Bransfield's out at first. Smith was the first batter up in the third, and he popped up a little fly which McGann got under and then made a muff of. Flaherty tried for a sacrifice and Devlin got the ball, but threw it away over McGann's head, allowing Smith to score, and McGann, in an effort to head Flaherty off at the plate, also made a wild throw, so that two runs were scored without a hit being made. The score was a tie, and remained so until the ninth inning.

Kruger was the first Pirate at bat in the ninth, but he was an easy out at first. Wagner then appeared and drove the ball down the right foul line and it brought up against the fence, Hans reaching third on the hit, while the spectators cheered until they were blue in the face. Bransfield, the next batter, who had been unable to do anything with Ames' delivery in the previous innings, now made up for lost time, and placed a single in left which brought Wagner home with the run that won the game and sent the big crowd home happy to supper. BAN JOHNSON MAKES ANOTHER OF HIS BLUFFS

Says the Giants, If They Win Pennant, Must Play Americans or Get Out of New York.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 20.—President Ban Johnson of the American league says the Giants will have to play off a post-season series of games if they win the National league championship, with the team winning the American league pennant or get out of New York city.

President Johnson, when seen at American League park this evening and asked if he had any answer to make to McGraw's statement that he would not play an American league club, said: "That is ridiculous. McGraw is only a manager and Mr. Brush is president. It is not what Mr. McGraw says. Mr. Brush controls the situation and he is dictating to McGraw. President Herrmann of the Cincinnati club told me once that Mr. Brush was afraid to play an American league club, and now I am sure of it. Brush is simply putting McGraw in front to stand the brunt of the criticism that will follow the refusal to play, thinking that McGraw's popularity may stifle public opinion. But he will be mistaken. Neither McGraw nor anybody else is big enough nor popular enough to go against such a storm of indignation as will follow Brush's and McGraw's unsportsmanlike decision.

"McGraw is mistaken when he says the Baltimore club was 'squeezed' to enable the American league to locate in New York. It was McGraw's desertion to the Giants that stimulated us in locating in this city. At the joint schedule committee meeting last spring it was resolved that the champions of both leagues this fall should play for the world's championship, and if Mr. Brush welches he will have to get out of New York."

CLOSE FINISHES IN SCHENLEY RACES

Buster Brown Wins Fifth Event in Straight Heats—Welshod Ahead.

THE ATTENDANCE IS LARGE

Pleasant weather, a fine track, close finishes and a large attendance combined to make the matinee races yesterday afternoon at Schenley park an auspicious afternoon's sporting event. The grandstands were filled with spectators, the largest crowd of the year being present.

There were several spirited races. It required four heats to decide the second race. Buster Brown took the fifth event in straight heats, winning both in close finishes.

The surprise of the afternoon came in the third race, when Welshod won. He beat Miss Wetzell two in three heats, winning the first and third. Miss Wetzel captured the second heat, and the interest was intense among the attendance. Miss Wetzell secured a victory over Welshod last week, and it was thought that she could repeat the performance yesterday. Welshod was driven by his owner, Ed Kern.

The only feature that detracted from the racing was the lateness in finishing the program. Summaries:

PLEASURE IN PARKS.

Clever Performers Engaged to Entertain at the Traction Resorts.

The traction parks will have good concerts on Sunday, with a number of good special features. Walter Wallace Edwards, the colored lad of 10, whose preaching has caused a sensation locally, and who made such an impression last Sunday at one of the parks, will be at Calhoun park this coming Sunday, afternoon and evening. His oratory, his interpretation of the scriptures, together with his way of placing before his auditors the mission he declares he has been called upon to perform, make this boy more than interesting. The Western Pennsylvania Military band will furnish the instrumental music at the concerts and the other features will be Hastings and Sheldon, comedy singers, and Theodore W. Cameron, monologue artist.

The Oakwood concerts will be given by the Second Brigade band, directed by Lieut. Peter Dannhardt, with instrumental and vocal soloists, and the Southern park concerts will be given by the Bartley Military band, with the Excelsior quartet as a special feature.

Kennywood's Sunday concerts will be given by the Homestead Library band, with soloists, and there will very likely be special attractions in the auditorium of the steeplechase building.

The weekly show at Southern park will be the Dixie troubadours, on a return engagement, their show having made such a hit at its last visit here that many requests were sent to the park management for a return date for the troupe of colored entertainers. Kennywood's big free attractions will be Martin, the wonderful high diving cyclist. His turn consists of riding at lightning speed up a steep inclined plane and diving from the bicycle into a tank of water.

VICTIM OF HEAT.

One of Them Is a Brother-in-Law of Sol Smith Russell.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., July 20.—(Special.)—Leigh Lynch, 60 years old, advance agent for Herkell's Indian band, died of heat prostration. He was a brother-in-law of the late Sol Smith Russell, married one of the famous Berger sisters, known as the Swiss bell ringers, and was well known in theatrical circles. He weighed more than 400 pounds.

CHICAGO, July 20.—The dead body of August Junge, aged 60 years, who founded the now wealthy firm of Heissler & Junge, bakers, was found today in a pantry in the basement of his home. The gas jet had been turned on. Ill health and suffering from the heat is given as the motive.

STERLING, ILL., July 20.—George Sanford dropped dead last evening from the effect of the heat. Today he was to have married a nurse, Miss Maggie Kallison, who attended him during the war in the Philippines.

It was announced that information making similar charges will be filed against William Aikerman, P. H. Mullaney, A. L. Nugent and William Gaffey next Saturday.

Cupid's Plans Were Checked.

Charles Petrochana, an Italian, aged 26, and Agnes Harkins, aged 16, were arrested on a complaint from Bolivar as being elopers and had a hearing yesterday at the East End police station before Magistrate Negley. The Italian was fined $50 and costs and the girl was sent to Central station to await the arrival of her parents.

Textile Workers Will Strike.

FALL RIVER, MASS., July 20.—By a vote of 1,510 to 396, the textile workers tonight decided to strike on July 25 in all of the so-called union cotton mills of this city, where a 12½ per cent reduction in wages has been announced to become operative next Monday. Thirty thousand employes are affected.

PERSONALS

William T. Lechleider, assistant superintendent of transportation of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, arrived in Pittsburgh last evening from Cleveland. He is on a tour of the lines he represents. During the week he visited all the lake ports, including Sandusky, Ashtabula, Fairport and Painesville. "Business is improving," said Mr. Lechleider. "A good deal of ore is being brought across the lakes and much coal is being returned. Business all over the B. & O. lines has shown a marked improvement the past four weeks. Indications are that freight movements will increase in volume for some time."

Albert J. Smiley of Albuquerque, N. M., arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday on business and registered at the Seventh avenue. Last evening he said: "New Mexico is experiencing a healthy and substantial growth. Under the magic agency of irrigation many of the waste spots of the country are being transformed into beautifully cultivated farms and orchards full of luscious fruit. Our mineral resources are also beginning to attract much attention, and all who have seen the really handsome display of the territory at St. Louis admit that its undeveloped wealth is something wonderful. About all our citizens want at this time to fill the measure of their content is statehood, and that they hope to get in the near future. We have no say in the national election, but if our people could register their preference President Roosevelt would carry the territory by a tremendous majority. Our present valued delegate in congress, Hon. B. A. Rodey, is sure of renomination by the Republicans, and I do not believe there is any doubt of his reelection."

Judge Joseph Buffington of the United States district court left last night for a trip up the lakes. On his return he will go to the mountains for the summer.

A party of Pittsburghers, consisting of J. M. Kirby, Arthur K. Sykes, Dr. W. W. Wolfe and John G. Case, left last night over the Wabash railroad on a trip to Clayton, N. M., to inspect mining properties. They represent the Sater Copper Company. From Clayton they will go to Texas and then to Denver, where they will superintend the construction of large smelter works.

The family of F. C. Smith, manager of the Colonial hotel, left last night for Atlantic City.

IN BEHALF OF CHILDREN.

Eminent Men and Women Join Hands in New Organization.

NEW YORK, July 20.—An organization to be known as "The National Child Labor committee," has been formed in this city. Its general secretary is Samuel McCune Lindsay, commissioner of education in Porto Rico, and professor of sociology in the University of Pennsylvania. Among those interested in the new organization are Jane Addams, Felix Adler, Mrs. Emmons Blaine, A. J. Cassatt, Grover Cleveland, Cardinal James Gibbons, Bishop David H. Greer, Adolph S. Ochs, Hoke Smith and Senator B. R. Tillman.

In speaking of the work of the committee Mr. Lindsay said today: "The national child labor committee desires, wherever its co-operation is requested, to investigate the conditions under which children are engaged in gainful occupations in all parts of the country, and to help create a healthy public sentiment in favor of giving every child the best possible chance to make the most of its life."

Sixteen Before Police Board.

Sixteen policemen were before the police trial board yesterday morning for violations of the police rules. Coleman Bullister of the Central station was recommended for dismissal on charge of drinking while on duty. The others were ordered to pay small fines and undergo short terms of suspension.

Child Killed by Car.

NEW CASTLE, PA., July 20.—(Special.)—William, the 2-year-old son of David Thomas of Hamilton street, was killed before his mother's eyes this evening by a street car. She made a desperate effort to save him.

TRIED TO LYNCH HIM.

Mob Got After a Man at Church Picnic, but Constable Interfered.

Alderman McGovern committed a man to jail last night under the name of John Doe, who is said to by Mykolas Saddga of Kirkpatrick street. Constable Michael Kerrigan, who took him to jail, said a crowd of church people at Southern park wanted to lynch the man and actually went in search of a rope.

Kerrigan said when he broke through the crowd surrounding Laddga, he was being beaten and mobbed. The constable drew a revolver and warned the crowd to release him, but before he got the man out of the park the crowd made every effort to recapture him to carry their threat into execution. Kerrigan took the man to Alderman McGovern's office in the West End and made information against him, charging him with disorderly conduct and the alderman sent him to jail for a hearing.

Kerrigan said that St. Casimir's church congregation of the South Side held a picnic at Southern park yesterday, which Laddga attended. During the day he gave a girl whisky and got her drunk. Being apprehended by some of the people in the park the crowd got after him and were determined to punish him, when Kerrigan appeared.

OFFICERS WERE TALKING.

While They Were Collecting Loafers, Others Thought They Wanted Money.

Annie McDonald, who was arrested Tuesday night on a charge of disorderly conduct, accused Policemen John J. Dillon, Robert Ewart and Edward Frawley, at the hearing before Magistrate Sewart yesterday, of trying to collect money from her. The three officers were called to the house in Third avenue yesterday morning to quell a disturbance between James McCarty and Addie Connelly. While the officers were there the McDonald woman appeared. She was placed under arrest with the others.

At the hearing Annie McDonald said her arrest was undeserved. She accused Officer Dillon of attempting to collect money from her. The officer denied this.

Policemen Frawley and Ewart said that with other officers they often went to the disorderly houses to arrest men who made a practice of loafing in these places. On entering the house the police would remark they were on a "collecting tour," meaning they were collecting loafers from these places.

MRS. NATION KNOCKED DOWN BY A CIGARETTE SMOKER

GUTHRIE, KY., July 20.—(Special.)—While making a tour over the fair grounds here today Carrie Nation, the saloon smasher, spied a young man from Trenton smoking a cigarette. She hurried up to him and slapped it from his mouth. The experience was a novel one to the young man, John Williams, nor to his liking. Producing another cigarette, he lighted it, at the same time cautioning Mrs. Nation not to repeat her performance. Deaf to his warning, she boldly knocked the second cigarette from his mouth. Infuriated by this, the young man, it is alleged, knocked her down and then lighted his third cigarette in peace. Mrs. Nation was not seriously hurt.

Youth Charged With Embezzlement.

Frederick Watson, aged 19, was committed to jail yesterday by Alderman Means, on a charge of embezzlement. He is accused by James Musgrove of taking $49.27, the property of a milk company of which the prosecutor is an official.

MRS. MAYBRICK IS FINALLY SET FREE

SKETCH OF UNHAPPY CAREER

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

TRURO, CORNWALL, ENGLAND, July 20.— Mrs. Florence Maybrick was released today and left for France.

Her imprisonment was not terminated with the clang of the doors of Aylesbury prison, where she spent more than 14 years of her life, but before the arched doorway of the white convent of the Sisterhood of the Epiphany in this little town, with the black-robed sisters softly uttering their blessings and good wishes for her future. With two companions, Mrs. Maybrick entered the carriage of Miss Dalrymple, secretary of the sisterhood, and was driven rapidly to Staustell, a small station 14 miles away, where, after exchanging good-bys with her companions, she boarded a train and started on her journey to France. She will not go to America until her presence there is considered imperatively necessary.

Secrecy About Departure.

The greatest secrecy was thrown about Mrs. Maybrick's departure. Mother Superior Julian of the convent said that under her instructions she must refer all inquiries regarding her leaving to the home office. Others at the convent were equally uncommunicative. At the railroad station orders were issued forbidding the employes to discuss Mrs. Maybrick.

When Mrs. Maybrick first arrived here she was kept under strict surveillance. Subsequently she was allowed to walk in the quiet streets of this place and in the shady country lanes. Her time at the convent was taken up by sewing, reading and chatting with the sisters, endearing herself to them by many acts.

This morning she was dressed in gray, wore a white boa around her neck and had a gray hat with flowers upon her whitened head. These garments were sent by her mother, the Baroness de Roques.

Mrs. Maybrick is not freed unconditionally. She is out on ticket-of-leave, but to all intents she is as free as any other person, can go where she will and will not have to make a report to the British authorities, as once Mrs. Maybrick is abroad she will be outside British jurisdiction. The Baroness de Roques has made preparations at Rouen for Mrs. Maybrick's arrival at her quiet home there where she will begin a new life.

Wrote Poem in Prison.

Mrs. Maybrick is said to have written the following poem, "Sometime, somewhere," in Aylesworth prison, in December, 1900, immediately after learning that another appeal in her behalf at Christmastide, had failed of result:

Unanswered yet, the prayer your lips have pleaded
In agony of heart these many years.
Does faith begin to fail, is hope departing,
And think you all in vain those falling years?
Say not the Father hath not heard your prayer,
You shall have your desire—some time—somewhere.

Unanswered yet? Though when you first presented
This one petition at the Father's throne
It seemed you could not wait the time of asking,
So urgent was your heart to make it known;
Though years have passed since then, do not despair.
The Lord will answer you—some time—somewhere.

Unanswered yet? Nay, do not say ungranted.
Perhaps your part is not yet wholly done.
The work began when first your prayer was uttered
And God will finish what He has begun.
If you will keep the incense burning there
His glory you shall heed—some time—somewhere.

Unanswered yet? Faith cannot be unanswered.
Her feet were firmly planted on the rock.
Amid the wildest storms she stands undaunted,
Nor quails before the loudest thunder shock.
She knows Omnipotence has heard her prayer
And cries: "It shall be done—some time—somewhere."

Sketch of Her Past.

Mrs. Maybrick, who was Miss Florence Elizabeth Chandler, a member of a well-known and prosperous family in the southern states, was married on July 27, 1881, in St. James church, Picadilly, to James Maybrick of Liverpool. She was then 18 years old. Her husband was over 40. In the spring of 1889 Maybrick became ill, and in a few days he died. His brothers investigated his death and charged Mrs. Maybrick with the death of her husband. A long trial followed, and a number of doctors swore that the deceased died of arsenical poisoning.

The defense proved that for 20 years Mr. Maybrick had been a confirmed user of arsenic, and that he daily took doses enough to have killed a dozen ordinary men. Mrs. Maybrick was eventually sentenced to death by the judge, Sir Fitz-James Stephen, who spoke for two days in charging the jury. He said it was impossible for them to find her not guilty in the face of the medical evidence. The judge died some time later in a madhouse. From the time of Mrs. Maybrick's conviction her mother, the Baroness De Roques, was unremitting in her efforts in behalf of the prisoner. She succeeded in having the death sentence commuted to penal servitude for life, and finally obtained the freedom of her daughter. The baroness was aided by influential friends on both sides of the Atlantic. In 1900, after the death of Lord Russell of Killowen, chief justice of England, a letter which he had written to Mrs. Maybrick in 1895 was discovered.

Convinced of Her Innocence.

It showed he was convinced that she ought never to have been convicted, and it has been generally understood that all the recent American ambassadors to the court at St. James have done everything possible to obtain Mrs. Maybrick's pardon.

The fact of her probable release was used as a reason for securing the postponement of a trial last year of law suits bearing on Mrs. Maybrick's interest in land in Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia until she was able personally to testify. If she could not testify in these suits Mrs. Maybrick and her mother would lose all title and interest in thousands of acres of land. On February 4 last Home Secretary Akers-Douglas confirmed in the house of commons that Mrs. Maybrick had been removed from Aylesbury prison to a convalescent home, where she would remain until the summer, when she would be allowed her freedom.

The transfer of the prisoner from a penal prison to a quiet country home constituted an almost unprecedented action on the part of the British authorities. It was due to the mediation of the duchess of Bedford, who, as a visitor to Aylesbury prison for many years, had taken a keen personal interest in Mrs. Maybrick, and finally succeeded in obtaining the mitigation of her punishment to the extent of her being allowed to spend the last six months of her confinement outside of the prison walls.

NEW SECRETARY CHOSEN BY ELKS

Duquesne Man Takes Place of Officer Who Was Severely Scored.

BIZARRE COSTUMES IN PARADE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, July 20.—Fred C. Robinson of Dubuque, Ia., was today elected grand exalted secretary by the Elks' grand lodge, by a bare majority of two, after balloting all the afternoon. Buffalo was chosen for the next annual reunion, to be held in July.

The official awards in the band contests gave the first prize of $1,000 for the band of 30 or more men; to the Second Illinois Regiment band of Chicago; second prize, $250, to Robertson's band, Cleveland. For bands of less than 30 members the first prize, $500, was given to the Baltimore band and the second to the Buffalo band.

Of the 934 lodges in the order, 66 competed for prizes in the parade this afternoon, each with its band, unique uniforms and various accompaniments. The Philadelphia, Cleveland and other lodges marched in full evening dress. The Dayton lodge, picked by many as a winner, had 120 men in Prince Alberts and silk hats, in spite of the hot weather. Several lodges with small representations appeared in line in tally-hos, among them being 13 representatives from Manila. Delegations had bears, coons and other animals as attractions. The eagle was the favorite bird in the procession.

August Hermann, exalted ruler of the Cincinnati lodge and chairman of the committee on arrangements, led the parade driving a team of trained elks. The Baltimore lodge had a wrecked fire engine, recovered from the conflagration of last autumn, and its buffalo mounted on a wagon. Lodges from Norfolk, Va., Huntington, W. Va., and other lumber districts had teams of oxen hauling logs, the timber differing according to location. These members were uniformed as log rollers. Several lodges were uniformed as coal miners, their cars being drawn by mules. Meadville had a bookmaker's wagon with 20 dummy horses, and the delegation uniformed as jockeys.

The cotton pickers of Greenville, Miss., all blackened and in negro garb, were the comedians of the march. Those from Joliet, Ill., wore the dress of convicts. Those from Louisville were dressed like Uncle Sam, all in red, white and blue. The Indianapolis lodge had automobile outfits, while New York, Chicago, New Orleans, Mobile, Columbus (O.) and many others were brilliantly arrayed in white with purple trimmings. The Tampa delegation wore coats made of Cuban tobacco, with cigarmakers' knives for plumes in their panamas. Another Florida delegation carried live alligators.

Gov. Herrick and Mayor Fleischmann occupied carriages with the grand officers, past grand officers and others.

CANNOT DROP TAGGART WITHOUT CONFUSION

Democratic Leaders Have Difficulty in Selecting the National Chairman.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, July 20.—There is a belief among the Democratic politicians who yet linger about the Hoffman house that Senator Gorman is still a possibility for chairman of the national committee. No one seems to be authorized to speak for the Maryland senator, and those who are in a position to know all that has taken place in recent conferences will not state his position.

A sectional question has arisen in connection with the chairmanship, and it is being pushed to some extent by the friends of Thomas Taggart. Both candidates on the national ticket are from the east, and it is said that to take the chairman of the committee from the same section will look like ignoring the west, a section in which electoral votes are sought. Mr. Taggart arrived in the city today, but has not yet met any of the Democratic leaders here.

Much depends upon the result of the conferences between the leaders and the Indiana man. It is understood that an intimation from Judge Parker that he preferred another man would speedily put Taggart out of the running, but doubt is expressed whether anyone will say that much from the judge.

Those who want Gorman hope that an understanding may be reached which will result in the selection of Gorman as chairman and that Taggart will be placed in charge of the western headquarters. Of course, the indorsement which the national committee has tacitly given Taggart and the active canvass he made for the place during the Democratic convention at St. Louis make it very embarrassing for the leaders, and especially the friends of Judge Parker, to insist that the Indiana man shall not step aside unless he does so voluntarily.

Former Senator Davis and National Committeeman Mack returned to New York this evening. Senator Davis will spend the night here and tomorrow morning will go to Bedford Springs, Pa., where he will meet National Committeeman J. M. Guffey of Pennsylvania and other prominent Democrats.

Woman Takes Laudanum.

Mrs. Stephen Reet of 1109 Lynn alley, McKeesport, swallowed half an ounce of laudanum at her home last evening at 6 o'clock. She was despondent, it is alleged, on account of quarrels with her husband. Two physicians worked with her last night and at a late hour she was pronounced out of danger. Mrs. Reet is 22 years old and has two children.

Born in the Workhouse; Died in the Workhouse

"Born in the workhouse; died in the workhouse."

This is the record of the male child of Martha Winovic as it appears on the county register. The infant was 22 days old, being born on June 26, and died yesterday from inanition. The mother was sentenced to the workhouse January 26, 1904, for eight months on a charge of larceny by bailee. The child's body was taken to the morgue and turned over to its father for burial.

LAWSON SCORES COPPER COMPANY

CALLED "FRENZIED FINANCE"

NEW YORK, July 20.—Thomas W. Lawson, the Boston copper king, in one of the most sensational and astounding revelations of the methods of "higher finance," is giving to the world in the columns of the August issue of Everybody's Magazine the story of the Amalgamated Copper Company and the relations which the Standard Oil crowd bore to it and the public.

Under the title of "Frenzied Finance," he declares that in launching the company Wall street was given the "double cross," and the "dear public," in the first five years of its existence, was "plundered to the extent of over $100,000,000."

"From its inception," he continues, "it was known as a Standard Oil creature, because its birthplace was the National City Bank of New York, the Standard Oil bank, and its parents the leading Standard Oil lights, Henry H. Rogers, William Rockefeller and James Stillman.

"It has from its birth to present writing been responsible for more hell than any other trust or financial thing since the world began. Because of it, the people have sustained incalculable losses and have suffered untold miseries."

After describing the eight separate rings of financiers which he says go to make up the Standard Oil Company, Mr. Lawson gives a synopsis of the financial code of the great oil trust, as follows:

1. Keep your mouth closed, as silence is golden, and gold is what we exist for.
2. Collect our debts today. Pay the other fellow's debts tomorrow. Today is always here; tomorrow may never come.
3. Conduct all our business so that the buyer and the seller must come to us. Keep the seller waiting; the longer he waits, the less he'll take. Hurry the buyer, as his money brings us interest.
4. Make all profitable bargains in the name of "Standard Oil," debatable ones in the name of dummies. "Standard Oil" never goes back on a bargain.
5. Never put "Standard Oil" trades in writing, as your memory and the other fellow's forgetfulness will always be reinforced with our organization. Never forget our legal department is paid by the year, and our land is full of courts and judges.
6. As competition is the life of trade—our trade; and monopoly is the death of trade—our competitor's trade, employ both judiciously.
7. Never enter into a "butting contest with the government. Our government is by the people and for the people, and we are the people, and those people who are not can be hired by us.
8. Always do right. Right makes might, might makes dollars, dollars make right, and we have the dollars.

"The penalty for infringing the above rules is instant removal."

John D. Rockefeller, Mr. Lawson says, is a money-making machine, the details of which are "diagrammed in any of the blue prints already in circulation. For William Rockefeller, Mr. Lawson seems to entertain the highest respect and honor, "brotherly, clean of mind and body," a "good, wholesome man, made in the image of his God."

After thus describing the brains and force behind Standard Oil, Mr. Lawson enters into the details of how the Amalgamated Copper Company was formed. Here is the way Mr. Lawson explains how Wall street got the double-cross:

"After the organization of the Amalgamated, at a capitalization of $75,000,000, Mr. Lawson alleges that certain financiers were let in on the $50,000,000 ground floor, certain other on the $60,000,000 ground floor and the bulk of his associates on the $70,000,000 ground floor. And then as a solid phalanx all the different floor dwellers marshaled on the public at $75,000,000.

"Its entire stock was sold to the public at an average of $115 per share ($100 to $130), and in 1903 the price had declined to $33 per share."

MILLIONAIRE CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

Death of Lineman Causes the Arrest of Railroad President in New York.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, July 20.—Henry H. Rogers, multi-millionaire, Standard Oil magnate and president of the Richmond Light and Railroad Company of Staten Island, was arrested early today on a charge of manslaughter. The warrant was issued as a result of the death of Edgar J. Coleman, on July 1. Mr. Rogers was brought before Coroner Schaefer and held in $1,000 bail for the grand jury. The bail was readily furnished.

Detective McKay came to New York yesterday and called at Mr. Rogers' home, 36 East Fifty-seventh street. There he was told that the millionaire was away on his yacht, the Kanawha. The detective went to Staten Island and his search was rewarded. Mr. Rogers made a few trifling objections, but went with the arresting officer very peacefully.

Coleman was a Western Union lineman and while repairing signal wires of the Staten Island Rapid Transit Company, at Elm Park, on July 1, received a shock which killed him. The insulation was defective. The coroner's jury returned a verdict in which the president and the directors were held responsible for Coleman's death.

ALEXANDER DODDS.

AN INSURANCE ORDER.

President Dolan, of the A. O. H. Favors It in His Report.

ST. LOUIS, July 20.—The features of today's sessions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians was the report of President James E. Dolan of Syracuse, N. Y., which strongly recommended the establishment of an insurance order, the establishment of a national home for aged and infirm Hibernians and the abolition of the caricature known as the "stage Irishman." The report of National Treasurer M. J. O'Brien showed that the order had a cash balance on hand of $26,361.43.

Tomorrow is Irish day at the world's fair, and the delegates rushed matters in order that they may spend the greater part of the day at the exposition with their friends. The festivities will close with a banquet at the Irish village.

The ladies' auxiliary to the Ancient Order of Hibernians today elected the following officers: President, Mrs. Mary A. Quinn, Joliet, Ill.; vice president, Mrs. Rose E. Keating, Baltimore; secretary, Miss Katherine E. Sheridan, Randolph, Mass.

PITTSBURGHERS SPEAK AT HEBREW-CHRISTIAN RALLY

ST. LOUIS, July 20.—(Special.)—The principal speakers tonight at a Hebrew-Christian rally in the Washington and Compton avenues Presbyterian church were the Rev. A. Kuldell, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church of Allegheny, and the Rev. Maurice Ruben, superintendent of the New Covenant Mission at Pittsburgh. Their addresses strongly impressed the audience, which consisted almost entirely of Christians. The meeting tonight was the first of a 10-days' series arranged by a committee of the friends of Israel Union mission. The object of the meetings is to create a friendlier spirit between the Jews and Christians of St. Louis.

HAS OVER ONE THOUSAND PROPOSALS OF MARRIAGE

NEW YORK, July 20.—(Special.)—Mary McCann, the pretty 17-year-old heroine of the Slocum disaster, who saved six lives at North Brother island, where she was a patient in the hospital, has received more than 1,000 offers of marriage by mail. There are letters from young men and old men, from bachelors and widowers, and one even from a Protestant minister, who offers to change his faith to gain her hand; but Mary will have none of them. She has refused to answer the letters and threatens not to receive any more mail.

SOCIETY

MISS KATE CASSATT MacKNIGHT sailed from New York last Saturday for Europe. She was accompanied by her niece, Miss Patty Gregg, and they will remain abroad a couple of months. Miss MacKnight expects to return only in time to meet the officers and directors of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women to make the final arrangements for the annual state meeting, which will be held in Lancaster in October. Though they will make a general tour of central Europe and the British isles, Miss MacKnight and Miss Gregg will spend the greater portion of their stay abroad in Germany, where they will make something of a study of civic improvements as they are conducted there, with the idea of applying some of the results of their investigations to conditions in Pennsylvania, and particularly in Pittsburgh.

The wedding is the culmination of a summer resort romance, Mr. White having met his future bride at a Wisconsin summer resort, while he was a Nashotah student. Mrs. John Liggett of Springwood left a week ago yesterday with Mrs. Robert Harrison Kelly for Asbury Park, where they will spend several weeks. Next week Mr. and Mrs. Birge will go to Ocean City and later to Canadogha lake. Late in August Mr. and Mrs. John Liggett, Jr., intend going to Lenox for a few weeks.

CHAUTAUQUA

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., July 20.—(Special.)—The gymnastic exhibition is an annual affair which is always looked forward to with great interest, and last evening the amphitheater was comfortably filled long before the hours for the performance. The class from the Boys' club in dumb-bell exercises was led by H. S. Anderson, and a class of girls, led by Jacob Bolin, gave a drill in Swedish educational gymnastics. The horizontal bar exhibition and the parallel bar exercises by members of the men's class were remarkably good for amateurs, but the enthusiasm of the audience rose to the greatest pitch when Dr. George May gave a marvelous showing of what can be done in fancy club swinging.

The Rev. J. R. Savage delivered the lecture at college chapel this morning. At 9 o'clock Mrs. Martha Allen, national superintendent of Non-Alcoholic Medication, spoke in Alumni hall on "Danger to the Home from Patent Medicines."

A symposium was conducted in the Presbyterian house this afternoon on "How We May Help in Banishing the Drug Habit from the Home." First by mothers, Mrs. M. M. Allen; second, by teachers, Miss Helen Hartley of Rochester, N. Y.; third, by the Young Men's Christian association, Dr. Anna Brown of Boston; fourth by physicians, Dr. William Bainbridge of New York City, Dr. J. W. Seaver and Dr. James A. Babbitt of Philadelphia, Dr. Lincoln Hulley gave his third lecture in the series of "Services or the Giving of Self" and his text was "Christ came not into the world to be ministered unto but to minister."

At 11 o'clock a large audience listened to Dr. D. P. Bowne propound the "Protestant View on the Parish School Question." Seldom if ever has a Chautauqua audience been privileged to hear such a refined, clear and logical treatment of a question so essentially of interest to every thinking individual. Dr. Bowne's lecture was not an attack on anyone but a recognition of facts presented in a concise form, in which the arguments used by the parochial schools were overburdened.

"The last plea presented by the parochial schools that they be paid for the instruction which they give, is unjust, as the state provides schools which furnish better instruction than the parochial schools are able to do, and if the Catholics prefer to provide their own instruction, let them pay the bills. Not teaching religion and not teaching morals is lamentably confused by many. The fear that some religion may be overturned in the public schools is well grounded, but we answer that some religions must be overturned."

The Chautauqua Junior choir gave a concert this afternoon in which the parents and friends of the little folks delighted. An interpretative recital by Prof. S. H. Clark on "Julius Caesar, a Tragedy of the Idealist," was given in the afternoon and at 5 o'clock Dr. Richard Bowne lectured on "Christ as a Teacher." The lecture on "Platform Experiences," by Col. G. W. Bain, was followed by a reception for Col. Bain at the Men's clubhouse.

WARM WEATHER CROWDS SHORE

Exodus of Pennsylvanians to the Boardwalk at Atlantic City.

HORSESHOW HOLDS ITS OWN

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau. Young's Ocean Pier.
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 20.

The arrival of The Pittsburgh Gazette this afternoon containing the story that there were five more deaths in Pittsburgh yesterday from the heat caused not a little consternation among the score of Pittsburghers who gather in the bureau every day to await the coming of the papers from home. The warm wave has reached here and it is hot, very hot all over the city with the exception of the boardwalk and the beach. This is, however, a refreshing sea breeze, and the nights are cool enough to permit rest and refreshing sleep. So far there are no mosquitoes, and it is believed that the war that was made on them by the state entomologist has about exterminated them on the island. One effect of the heat in the cities is to crowd the resort. Tonight the boardwalk is filled, as are all of the piers and the places of amusement.

Flawless weather lent its charm and halo to the horse show this afternoon. No less brilliant was the gowning of the women. The smart sets of several cities seemingly were in competition for beauty, grace and costumes. A crowd of 9,000 people filled the big grand stand. Lace trimmed hats in delicate tints, and dainty, shaded as many pretty faces as were ever brought together here. The soft, clinging materials, which drapes so well, are still in popular favor with milady, but the furniturings was elaborate.

One of the interesting incidents was the arrival of the traps, brakes and automobiles by way of the carriage entrance, and there was a waving of recognition between these parties and those in the grand stand. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Bockmyar of Philadelphia, drove a pair of browns to brake, and with them were Mr. and Mrs. James Ballou, Miss Mabel Nobre and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Oellers. Mrs. Bockmyar wore white serge and a lace hat with pink roses. Mrs. Ballou appeared in a white French robe, Miss Nobre in white serge and Mrs. Oellers in white and lace with a hat to match.

William H. Wanamaker, Jr., of Philadelphia, greeted many friends in his auto car, which was ranged to one side, and Charles Prettyman arrived in a big machine with Mrs. Prettyman and several friends. Mrs. Edward Rowe drove a pair of sorrels into the grounds, and with her was her daughter, both in light gowns. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kaufman of Philadelphia was accompanied in an automobile by Miss Cecile Wise of Birmingham, Ala. J. T. Neely and J. H. Houston were in another machine, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Osborne, Mrs. J. Warren Coulston, Jr., and Mrs. Walter P. Davis composed a party in another motor car.

SHADE TREE PESTS PROMISE BIG INCREASE

State Zoologist Furnishes a Prescription for Destruction of Caterpillars.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, July 20.—"To say that shade-tree pests are seen to increase in numbers in Pennsylvania is no promise of good," said State Economic Zoologist Surface today in speaking of the defoliation of the shade trees in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and other cities of the state by the Tussock moth.

Dr. Surface said that the evidence of the coming outbreaks is that there are great numbers of the wingless females of these moths emerging from the cocoons in which they have recently been resting, and they are commencing to lay chalk-like masses of eggs on the trunks and larger limbs of many kinds of trees.

He predicts that in a few days great numbers of young hairy caterpillars, or Tussock moths, will hatch from these eggs and commence to devour the foliage. They will not be conspicuous for some time, but in a few weeks they will seem to have appeared suddenly.

"There is only one way to prevent the occurrence of these pests," continued Dr. Surface, "and that is to pick off and destroy the white masses of eggs as they may be found on the trunks and larger branches of trees. They eggs may also be destroyed by spraying or pouring a little common kerosene, or lamp oil, on the masses. They need not then be picked from the trees.

"To destroy the worms or larvae after they hatch and commence to feed, it is best to spray them with an arsenite, such as paris green, one pound in 150 gallons of water. They may also be knocked from the leaves by a forceful jet of water and then crushed on the ground."

The burnished plumage of the peacock owes its brilliancy and splendor to a healthful condition. Let the bird be sickly, and the plumage droops and grows dull. There is no exception in nature to the rule that beauty depends on health.

Women who see their beauty waning rarely associate the external change with failure of the womanly health. They do not understand the close relation of the general physical health to the health of the delicate womanly organism, until after being cured of womanly diseases by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription they find the color returning to the cheek and the flesh to the body.

"Favorite Prescription" establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"Several years ago I was very poorly," writes Mrs. May Kelley, of Sylvia, Kans. "so weak I could hardly walk across the floor, and at times suffered severely. I took two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and got well and hardy—gained twelve pounds in two months and was the picture of health. Your medicines have cured me. Almost everybody I meet says, 'You look so much better than you have for several years; you look well now.'"

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

SOME NEW HIGH RECORDS IN NEW YORK STOCKS

A Sharp Reaction Near the Close of the Market Reduced the Net Gains—Better Feeling on the Pittsburgh Board.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

United States Steel preferred at 63¼, Pennsylvania at 121⅝, Baltimore & Ohio at 85⅝, St. Paul at 149¾, Northwestern at 179½, Illinois Central at 137½, Union Pacific at 99, Southern Pacific at 52⅝, Missouri Pacific at 95½, Southern Railway at 25⅛—these were some of the high prices made in the New York stock market yesterday. The list is representative of the best in railroad investments as well as of the more popular speculative issues, and United States Steel preferred, of course, is the pivotal stock among the industrials. With two exceptions the prices quoted are the highest for the year, and the exceptions are only slightly below the best. The list gives an idea of the breadth of the market, the course of which has now been continuously upward for nearly a month, and the average of prices is now higher than at the corresponding period a year ago. It might be noted in passing, however, that the third week in July, 1903, furnishes a very strong contrast to the present week. At this time last year prices were making new low records, and the violence of the decline was sufficient to carry down two prominent stock exchange houses.

The market yesterday opened in a rather hesitating way, due to the lower prices received from London, and to the sales of about 30,000 shares for foreign account. The London and continental markets are still in a nervous tremor over the action of Russia in the Red sea, and there was a further decline in consols yesterday. After the foreign offerings had been absorbed a fresh buying movement began in Union and Southern Pacific, and those two stocks for a time became the leaders of the market. Insiders in Union Pacific have been buying the stock on every decline, and they are said to have told their friends that it would be put upon a 5 per cent dividend basis and would cross par. Rumors were current yesterday that Hill and Morgan interests were also buying Union Pacific as a hedge against the possible outcome of the Northern Securities litigation adverse to the Hill-Morgan interests and in favor of the Harriman interests. The strength of the stock seemed to be great enough to pull up the general market, and during the early part of the afternoon the tone was buoyant. Atchison did not quite reach its previous high mark, but was quite firm. The Gould issues were strong and both Missouri Pacific and Wabash preferred advanced. Wheeling & Lake Erie preferred, on the other hand, was weak, and broke from 43 to 40½, while the rest of the market was advancing. The highest prices of the day for the railroad list occurred after 2 o'clock.

United States Steel issues held quite firm during the early part of the day, and during the middle part of the afternoon became strong. The common rallied to 12¾, the preferred to 63½, the highest of the year, and the sinking fund bonds to 79⅝. All of the minor iron and steel issues were firmer, and Tennessee Coal and Iron was quite active, advancing to 40⅝. Amalgamated Copper rose to 53⅝, but Sugar continued to lag. A mild sensation was caused during the closing half hour by a break of 1 per cent in Steel preferred, which sold down to 62. The selling movement extended to the general list, carrying prices down ½ to 1½ per cent from the top. There was a moderate recovery just before the close, but final prices with but few exceptions showed losses as compared with the previous day. Prominent exceptions were Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Louisville & Nashville and Colorado Fuel and Iron, which closed slightly higher than on Tuesday.

There was no explanation for the reaction, except possibly that it was due in the natural course of a market like that witnessed for the past two weeks. Some comment was made upon the statement of the Iron Age in its weekly review of the steel situation, that "The improvement has been taking place chiefly in Wall street." There was also renewed comment upon the fact that the majority directors in Northern Securities had rejected an olive branch extended by the representatives of the Harriman interest. To all sentimental influences, however, the bulls point to the solid fact of the growing crops, weather conditions having again been all that could be desired, and a further decline in wheat in the Chicago market reflecting the feeling among western operators over the outcome of the harvest.

Call loan rates remained easy at 1 to 1¼ per cent. The only change in the eastern money market has been a slight advance in rates for commercial paper, and the preference bankers are now displaying for call rather than time loans, even at the wide difference in rates for the two classes of loans.

There was a better feeling in the Pittsburgh stock market, prices were firmer and there was a moderate increase in the volume of business. United States Steel was the leader in point of activity, and both the common and preferred closed at the best, the local market not following the reaction in the east. Crucible Steel common was firm at 5½ and the preferred advanced to and closed at 36⅞. The feeling is that if United States Steel is advancing on improvement in actual trade conditions, Crucible should sympathize with the movement. Natural Gas stocks were firmer and fractionally higher. Light and Heat advanced to 31¼ and Ohio Fuel Supply to 37¼. There were no sales of Philadelphia Company, but the stock advanced to and closed at 40 bid. Westinghouse stocks were dull and unchanged. Consolidated Gas 5s advanced ¾ per cent to 109½. There was nothing done at the call of bank and trust company stocks.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

Out of 60 odd millions of Pittsburgh Coal and 30 odd millions of River coal, the total transactions yesterday amounted to 20 shares Pittsburgh Coal common at 14 and 20 shares preferred at 57. River Coal common was wanted at 8 bid, but there was no quotation on the preferred. The bonds of the company were quoted at 110½ bid, but none was offered. There were no quotations on Pittsburgh Coal dividend scrip. This group of securities during the early part of the year furnished the bulk of the trading on the local board. There is no probability of development in the near future to stimulate public interest. The dividend on Pittsburgh Coal preferred has been declared and will be paid next Monday, while the dividend on River preferred has been deferred and there will be no further action until near the close of the year. The outlook, therefore, is for continued dullness in these two stocks. The monotony, however, might be broken by a revival of rumors which were at one time current a year or more ago that the United States Steel Corporation would one day acquire the properties.

The statement regarding the affairs of the Pittsburgh & Montana Company contained in a dispatch from Butte, Mont., is pronounced by James H. Reed, president of the company, to be without foundation. He is quoted as saying: "The company is not hard up for money, and the plant is being operated right along with perfect satisfaction to the owners of the property." The largest stockholders in the company are Mr. Reed and Ralph Baggaley.

An informal conference of Philadelphia Company interests, including several Pittsburghers, was held in Philadelphia this week.

The Westinghouse Brake Company, Limited, of London, last week paid a semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent. The majority of the stock is owned by the Pittsburgh company.

Wall street had a story yesterday that Harriman had acquired a controlling interest in Atchison.

Steel preferred was loaning flat in the New York market. The short interest in the stock is said to be very obstinate.

It is understood that the income account of Baltimore & Ohio for the year ended June 30, will show something under 8 per cent earned on the common stock for the year.

Directors of Great Northern have declared the usual quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on the capital stock, payable August 1, 1904.

The purchase of the Syracuse Rapid Transit and the Utica, Rome & Oneida trolley systems by New York Central interests, and the probability that a section of the West Shore would be electrically equipped to connect these systems, and other developments in connection therewith, would give to General Electric, it is said, business of at least $1,000,000.

Reports from the soft coal trade indicate that the packer's strike is resulting in a reduced demand for soft coal, especially in the west, where packig industry is largely located. Under normal conditions a large amount of soft coal is used at the plants of the various packing concerns and any interruption to operations of these plants has an immediate effect upon the soft coal market. Prices have shown considerable weakness. It is expected that so long as the strike continues the soft coal trade will be unfavorably affected.

"I consider the short interest in Pennsylvania dangerously large and can only be covered by material advance from present price," was the opinion of a New York house wired to Pittsburgh yesterday.

"This is a Gates market. So far he has been successful in putting up prices, but profits have not been taken as yet," said a member of the New York stock exchange yesterday.

The Illinois Central has declared the regular semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent.

The Quincy Copper Mining Company has declared a semi-annual dividend of $2 50 a share.

Decrease in estimated earnings, expenses and net earnings of the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway Company for June and six months ended June 30, 1904, as compared with the corresponding periods of 1903:

June—	Decreases.
Gross earnings	$118,613
Operating expenses	128,752
*Net earnings	$ 10,139
January 1 to June 30—
Gross earnings	$262,684
*Operating expenses	67,697
Net earnings	$330,381

*Increase.

The Northern Pacific Railway Company has declared a quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent and an extra dividend of ¼ per cent, both payable August "to those lawfully entitled to receive the same." Out of a total of $155,000,000 Northern Pacific stock authorized, $153,450,000 was acquired by the Northern Securities Company, leaving only $1,550,000 in the hands of the public. Under the supreme court decision, Northern Securities cannot receive this dividend on its holdings.

The death of Mr. T. S. Bigelow will have no effect on the local stock market. According to a well-posted financier Mr. Bigelow never speculated on margin in the market, and his investments were mainly in high-class traction bonds and like securities.

FEATURES OF THE DAY.

IN PITTSBURGH.

Bank exchanges decreased $3,661,000, compared with same day last year.

Better feeling in the stock market and some increase in business.

More than half the sales consisted of United States Steel and Crucible.

Natural gas stocks were firmer and closed fractionally higher.

Westinghouse stocks were dull and electric closed unchanged.

Consolidated Gas bonds advanced to 109½. Other issues steady.

IN WALL STREET.

Many prominent stocks reach the highest prices of the year.

Trading active, the sales footing up 883,300 shares stock and $3,765,000 bonds.

Foreigners continued to sell, but the offerings were well taken.

Union Pacific the strongest of the railroads, advancing to 99.

Steel preferred advanced to 63½, but near the close broke to 62.

At the close prices averaged lower, but the tone was good.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

The stock of the Phoenix Gold Mining Company has been stricken from the list of unlisted securities of the New York stock exchange.

Work upon the Ray-Tonopah group will be continued by an arrangement with the Mogul Mining Company, which will continue the present developments, while the future work of the new company for the present will be confined to the Ray and O'Brien group, where the new buildings have been completed, the gallows frame put in place, and the sinking of the 300-foot shaft is being continued. James L. Butler, president of the company, is expected in Tonopah about the 25th of this month, and he will then inspect the property and some needed changes and new plans will be effected. Altogether the future of the company looks bright.

The Blue Bird Gold Mining Company has granted a lease on its old orehouse dump to Whiting & Co. It is estimated that there is fully 20,000 tons of rock in the dump and the lessees have a big task before them. They intend to screen, wash and pick the dump and by that process expect to make an excellent grade of shipping ore.

The C. K. and N. Mining Company has declared a dividend of $14,319 payable July 25. This is the tenth dividend of the kind that the company has declared, making the total distribution $143,190.

The Cripple Creek Gold Mining Company, operating the main Gold Sovereign shaft under lease, is now shipping ore at the rate of a couple of carloads each day. The shaft is 650 feet deep and the bottom work is being furthered in the two ore shoots that parallel each other between six and eight feet apart. Each ore shoot is being broken from 16 to 18 feet wide, one vein of oxidized ore and the other sulphide. The ore being shipped is settled for from $20 to $60 to the ton in gold.

Supt. Stewart of the Central tunnel has just completed his report for the fiscal year ending June 30. The report shows that during the year the tunnel has been driven 1,846 feet, making the total length 3,643 feet on the first of this month. The average progress has been at the rate of seven and one-third feet per day.

Government statistics show that the total output of gold in the Transvaal (South Africa) in 1903 was $61,454,439, and of silver $178,820. The total yield since the resumption of mining subsequent to the war has been $102,326,811. From January to March, 1904, the production of gold was $18,370,960.

The big Portland mine, on Battle mountain, when in full running order, produces about 9,000 tons of ore each month, and there are 26 miles of underground workings. Its full complement of men is 650.

The June output of Leadville district was 66,000 tons, the largest tonnage yield in the state. There is no way of ascertaining its gross value. Much of the lower grade is concentrated before shipment to smelters. The zinc product for the same month is placed at 8,000 tons, crude and concentrate.

There is no truth in the widely heralded report that the Gold King mines in San Juan county have been sold for $5,000,000.

The Metal Market.

THE MONEY MARKET

The local money market is dull and easy at 5@6 per cent on call and time loans. Clearing house comparisons:

	Exchanges.	Balances.
Yesterday	$ 6,567,294 61	$1,125,616 45

Foreign Money Market.

LONDON, July 20.—Money, 2@2¼ per cent; the rate of discount for short bills is 2 11-16@2¾ per cent; the rate of discount for three months' bills is 2¾@2¼ per cent; consols for money, 22 11-16; consols for account, 89⅝. Money was in less demand in the market today and supplies were more abundant, while discounts were quoted at a fraction higher, with a somewhat easier feeling owing to the firmness of continental exchange, the receipts of gold from the Rand and the expectation that the recent arrivals were mostly secured there. Prices on the stock exchange were pronouncedly weak, owing to the position of consols and the feeling of considerable nervousness which prevailed in view of the possible developments as a result of the Red sea incident. They closed unsettled. Consols were flat, though they recovered well at the close. Home rails declined sharply, partly on account of disappointing dividends and indifferent traffic returns. Americans opened firm, especially Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, reacted slightly on profit-taking, became irregular, hardened later and closed strong. Foreigners were weak. Kaffirs were on the down grade as a result of the realizations. The imperial Japanese government sixes of 1904 were quoted at 95⅛. India council bills were allotted today at 1s 4d. Bullion to the amount of £193,000 was taken into the Bank of England on balance today.

PARIS, July 20.—Prices on the bourse today opened feeble owing to the complications growing out of the Russian seizures in the Red sea. Later stocks strengthened and closed firm. Russian imperial 4s closed at 92.50 and Russian bonds of 1904 at 5.05. The private rate of discount was 1⅝ per cent. Three per cent rentes, 97 francs 92½ centimes for the account. Exchange on London, 25 francs 22½ centimes for checks.

BERLIN, July 20.—Prices on the boerse today were quiet. The changes in quotations were slight. Exchange on London, 20 marks 44½ pfgs. for checks.

Foreign Exchange.

The Iron City Trust quotes checks as follows: London, $4 87.15; Paris, $5 17.95; marks, 95.35; kronen Austria, 20.36; Italian lire, paper, $5 17½; Dutch guilders, 40.35; roubles, 51.65; pesetas, 14.20; kronors (Scandinavia), 26.87; Hongkong (dollars local currency), $4 57; Yokohama (dollars local currency), $4 97.50; Manila (pesos), par.

BUNCO GAME GETS NEGRO LONG TERM

Chief Kelly of Glassport Must Explain Why He Arrested a Detective.

O'TOOLE ANSWERS O'REILLY

Thomas McCorale, colored, pleaded guilty to receiving stolen goods and was sent to the workhouse for two years and three months. The prosecutor, Richard M. Waddy, a policeman of Rankin, alleged the defendant held people up on the highways and told them he was an officer and they were under arrest. His scheme, the officer said, worked well for a time. He is said to have procured quite a sum of money by turning his prisoners loose after he had arrested them. When taken into custody the prosecutor said a mace, a badge, a revolver and a false mustache were found on the prisoner. The court said he did not believe the prisoner guilty of highway robbery, but said he was guilty of impersonating an officer.

A petition in involuntary bankruptcy was filed against Walter K. Egbert of Bradford, Pa., by Parke, Davis & Co. of Detroit, G. J. Jones of Philadelphia and Schieffelin & Co. of New York. Claims amounting to $565 25 are presented. A like petition was filed by the Pittsburgh Awning Company, the Frank Vogel Company of Allegheny, Keystone Commercial Company of McKeesport and Joseph Brouker of Clairton against Max Lichtenstein of Clairton. The claims filed amount to $663 24.

Detective William H. Muncey instituted habeas corpus proceedings directed against Peter Kelly, chief of police of Glassport, for the release of W. W. Walker, who, it is alleged, is illegally imprisoned in that town. Muncey says that Walker was employed by him and was assigned to duty at Glassport. On July 19 Chief Kelly is alleged to have arrested Walker without information being made against him and without cause, and has since kept him locked up. The writ issued by the court was made returnable this morning.

Proceedings were begun by William J. Fitzpatrick against his wife, Marie E. Fitzpatrick, to secure possession of his 10-year-old son Ralph. He says the wife deserted him taking their three children with her. His demand for the return of the son was refused.

In the estate of Howard MacBeth, a minor, orphans' court made an order for the payment of $1,113 20 to Attorneys Thomas M. and Rody P. Marshall as counsel fee for litigation instituted in behalf of the minor against the United Traction Company. Damages were recovered for personal injuries and under the agreement the attorneys were to receive 40 per cent of the amount recovered.

In the estate of J. O. Brown, Bessie Craft has petitioned orphans' court for a rehearing of her claim. She states she had no sworn statement of her claim on file as required. A rule was made on her petition.

In the United States circuit court the suit of Mrs. Elizabeth R. Hews of Fayette county against the Equitable Life Assurance society was filed, having been transferred from the court of Fayette county. She is suing for $10,000 alleged to be due on a policy held by her husband, Samuel R. Hews, who died February 14 last. Mrs. Hews alleges the policy was in full force at the time of her husband's death, but the insurance company allege it had lapsed on account of non-payment of the premiums.

In the case of Weed & Williams, bankers, of New Haven, Conn., against the Center and Clearfield Street Railway Company, an opinion was handed down by Judge Buffington. The opinion strikes out the case absolutely as far as the local United States court is concerned, Judge Buffington claiming the suit should be entered in the Connecticut courts. The plaintiffs allege they signed agreements with the railway company to advance money for material and labor to be used in the construction of the car line. They allege the money was advanced and that $120,000 is due them which they are unable to collect. Service was made in the offices of the defendant company, but this is stricken off by the court's opinion.

In the suit of John J. O'Reilly against Bernard O'Toole, the defendant has filed an answer denying that he owes the plaintiff $601 55 and that the plaintiff is the bona fide owner of a note for $800 given to E. M. O'Reilly and payable at 497 Market street. The answer recites that the defendant and E. M. O'Reilly were partners and that the note given her was a part of the deal by which he purchased her interest. He, however, says the "good will" of the business was to be delivered to him, and this included a long list of regular customers and the credit of the firm with wholesalers. E. M. O'Reilly, he alleges, instead of permitting him to be the beneficiary of the "good will," canvassed the customers objectively to destroy the patronage. It is alleged she stated repeatedly that the defendant "had schemed and tricked for years to get her business; had robbed her of all her earnings for years," and "had thrown her out on the street without a dollar." He appends a statement alleging he was slandered by her and the damage to his reputation is greater than the amount of the note.

Mandamus proceedings were begun by Thomas A. Coleman against the borough of Wilkinsburg and Walter Elder, borough clerk, to test the legality of an ordinance which provides that the extreme height of a brick veneered wall shall be 25 feet. Coleman wants to erect a house the walls of which are to be 28 feet high and has been refused a building permit. The writ is returnable July 26.

John Murphy has entered suit against M. K. McMullin & Co. to recover $3,850 alleged to be due him as a balance for stock which he gave the company as collateral secured for a $4,000 loan. He says he paid back $2,000 and subsequently desired to pay the balance with interest amounting to $2,150, but the firm, he says, refused to acept it and return the security. He avers the stock is worth $6,000, and he sues to recover the difference between its value and the amount he owes.

Philip Steuler has entered a libel in divorce against Anna C. Steuler, alleging she was married to and never divorced from Mueller Karl Tross. She is alleged to have married Tross in Germany in 1888, and married Steuler in 1898.

CONCERTED EFFORT WAS MADE TO TAKE PROFITS

The Entire Appearance of Wall Street Market Changed Within Five Minutes.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, July 21.—The Herald this (Thursday) morning says:

Stock market operations were conducted yesterday on practically the same lines and with the same results as have been witnessed for the last few days. One exception must be made, however, when the incidents at the close are considered. There was a concerted effort made to take profits, with the result that traders rushed pell-mell to realize. This remarkable slump in the same stocks which led the upward advance during the day did not originate with any news developments so far as appeared on the surface. Neither did the day's advance result from material improvement. The course of trading tends to prove the professional character of the speculation within recent days. Within the space of five minutes yesterday the entire appearance of the market changed. In searching for the cause, it was reported that the market weakened upon the report that the Missouri Pacific proposed to issue a big block of new stock.

There was the usual hesitancy displayed at the opening, consequent upon the continuance of profit-taking sales, which have been greatly in evidence during the week. The news from London and European centers was rather disturbing, manifested in the early decline in British securities. Americans in London were also reported lower, in sympathy with the general market. Serious as the news appeared to be in Europe as a result of the Red sea incidents, Wall street was inclined to attach but little interest to the entire matter. In fact, all news, favorable or unfavorable, met with the same neglect. The operations closely resembled the bold attempts made in January last to advance the market by sheer manipulative force, rather than allow natural tendencies to take their course. In the afternoon the upward swing was again in motion under the leadership of Steel and Union Pacific.

Trade advices on the iron and steel situation were not altogether conducive to the success of the manipulative tactics in steel shares. It seems to be taken for granted that the preferred dividend will be paid at the meeting next Tuesday, but the forecasts concerning business for the next two months are by no means reassuring. Still, it is recalled that the same forecasts were made for the quarter now ended, and they did not materialize.

NAVIGATION IS SLOW.

The Ohio River Will Let Few Boats Reach Pittsburgh.

Since the raising of the Davis and Herrs island dams, the stage below has been so low that navigation has been very slow and uncertain. On account of the shallow water in the Ohio the packet Queen City was tied up at Rochester yesterday on her way here from Cincinnati. Her freight was taken down to the boat by the Eliza and the passengers went to Rochester by rail.

The packet could have reached Pittsburgh, possibly, but Capt. J. A. Henderson said yesterday that he preferred not to take the chance. The Big Kanawha will arrive today from Parkersburg, unless the water falls much faster than expected. She was tied up down-river for awhile on her trip here, but will be in and out here today. Morgantown boats are still running regularly. The Columbia had a good trip both ways yesterday; the I. C. Woodward will be on hand again today.

Arrivals.

Columbia, Reno, Morgantown.
Queen City, Sweeney, Cincinnati.

Departures.

Columbia, Reno, Morgantown.
Queen City, Sweeney, Cincinnati.

Local River Notes.

The Jim Wood has tied up at Georgetown.

The Sam Clark has tied up at Steubenville.

The Greenland is making good time and will arrive here Friday.

The Enterprise went down yesterday to get the empties that were being towed in by the Coal City and Jim Wood.

The Ed. Roberts, Jim Moren, Pacific, Ironsides, Raymond Horner and Charley Brown are returning light from below, but it is thought unlikely that they can get much farther than Wheeling.

The stage of water in the Ohio river, according to the guages at Davis island dam at 9 o'clock last night, was 4 feet and stationary.

IRON MARKET IS ON UPWARD MOVE

Pig Metal Prices Stronger With Additional Furnaces Starting Again.

GENERAL NEWS OF THE TRADE

"The bottom has been reached and the tendency now is steadily upward," said one of the leading iron and steel men of Pittsburgh yesterday concerning the market.

"It is hard for consumers to learn that there is no further chance of buying at lower prices, but the inevitable result must be a rush of orders in a short while that will make prompt deliveries difficult," said another authority.

"The past week has been marked by greater activity in the production of pig iron. Several furnaces of the United States Steel Corporation are under orders to resume. The furnace plant of the American Steel and Wire Company at Newburg, Cleveland, will be in full and steady operation within a few days. The mills and furnaces of the Carnegie Steel Company at Homestead, Braddock and Duquesne are busier than they have been for months past. The deadlock over rail prices seems to have been broken, as many railroads are now ordering large lots of rails. The structural mills are becoming busy on orders which have been foreseen for some time. Bars are stronger and steel plates are again in more active demand.

In general, throughout the trade with but rare exceptions, business is brisker and the outlook and sentiment is far more cheering than has been the case. It is not expected that July will see the full development of the improvement which is under way. Even in August there will be some slowness such as comes each summer. By September 1, however, the activity of the business is expected to be unusually marked.

The increase in the furnace production is marked by the larger orders which are going to the coke companies. The largest producer expects a big increase in its business within the next week or two, and is preparing for the needed increase of railroad equipment.

Bessemer pig is quoted as firm at $12, furnaces, the equivalent of $12 85, Pittsburgh. The other pig irons show a corresponding firmness and their strength adds to that of the whole market.

The easiness of the money market is a helpful factor at present, and will be used to much advantage in the near future in the arrangements for the large business which has been delayed as long as it can be.

The Hardware Market.

The hardware business continues to move along in very good summer fashion, orders coming in freely from dealers generally and very good orders coming in from representatives in the field. The demand for general lines continues excellent, and the demand for season goods is remarkable, a great many refrigerators, screen doors and windows, ice cream freezers, hammocks, lawn mowers and goods of like kind continuing to move out. There is a very fair movement in builders' hardware, tools and other general lines. Business in bicycles and sundries keeps up remarkably well, the weather helping this condition. Prices continue firm, no changes having been made. The Bindley Hardware Company furnishes the following quotations: Columbia pocket knives, discount 85 per cent; Albion hatchets, discount 50 per cent; Bindley canal shovels, $6 50 a dozen; Great Western files, discount 70 and 10 per cent; sheet iron, base No. 26, $2 85 the 100 lbs.; galvanized sheet iron, discount 70 and 10 per cent; sash weights, a ton, $27; window glass, L. ACTUAL ORDERS HAVE NOT BEEN STIMULATED

However, There Is a Strong Disposition Toward Improvement in Iron Trade.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 20.—The Iron Age will tomorrow say:

There is in nealy all quarters a kindly disposition to help an improvement in the iron trade along with cheerful talk. There are certainly more inquiries and there is a good deal more of estimating on work than there has been. But there is very little really reliable evidence that actual orders have increased materially, or that consumption is again on the upward swing. On the contrary there are those who state emphatically that they expect a rather slacker month for August:

The improvement has been taking place chiefly in Wall street, and while the attention and possibly the apprehension of buyers have been aroused, and the hopes of sellers have been quickened, it will take more than talk to lift prices in the lines in which the markets are free and open, or to justify those asked by pools.

As to the southern pig iron situation there are conflicting reports. One large interest has withdrawn after meeting the market freely for weeks, and yet $9 00 iron keeps cropping up at Birmingham. In Chicago one northern interest is reported to have disposed of 30,000 tons, which includes one lot of 12,000 tons of malleable iron. In the east one leading producer has sold during the past two weeks fully 30,000 tons, the sales including during the last week one lot of 6,000 tons of gray forge and No. 3 foundry and two lots aggregating 8,000 tons of basic pig. Cast iron pipe interests report that they purchased at a shade less than some time since. A good share of the iron is needed for the Pearson end of the Pennsylvania railroad tunnel, but it is for extended delivery and is not much of a factor for the early future.

We cannot officially confirm the reports of sales of steel rails to a number of roads. Unsuccessful mills did not even know of the inquiries, and none of the sales have as yet been reported at the daily meetings to the pool commissioners. This, however, is not convincing proof to the contrary.

Some good jobs of structural material have been closed, and there is a good deal of talk of large inquiries for cars from the railroads and of nibbles from the same quarter on bridge work. The most important large affair coming up is the tonnage needed for the South Side elevated at Chicago, which will amount to 25,000 to 30,000 tons.

Asking prices for old material are higher.

POULTRY AND EGGS ARE STILL ADVANCING

Flour Holds Strong—Potatoes Touch Bottom—Corn Is Quoted Higher.

There was a sharp advance in poultry yesterday. Hens and springers are quoted higher; supply is none too good and demand has been increasing for several days. On account of the unusually high price of poultry for this season of year owners of the stock are selling it rapidly. This accounts in a large measure for the shrinkage in eggs and their consequent high prices. The quotations on poultry have been sufficiently attractive to cut the egg supply perceptibly during the past few days; selected candled eggs were quoted higher again yesterday. There was no change in cheese. Flour continues very active and the same is true of the grocery situation generally.

Potatoes were not bringing better than $2 on the street yesterday, and the supply in the yards amounted to almost 100 cars. It is thought, however, that the local market has touched bottom. The New York market went up and the market is higher at all shipping points. A firmer market is looked for again here very soon; tomatoes have also touched bottom. The general tone of produce was much better and buying was rather brisk all around. There is a firmer feeling on huckleberries; lemons advanced sharply yesterday, while plums went lower. New black currants arrived for the first time. The peach supply has been increasing rapidly this week; Elbertas are quoted lower and further reductions may be expected most any time.

Receipts continue very light on hay and grain, but the markets are looking better right along; a sale of No. 1 and No. 2 timothy was reported yesterday at $14 50; corn has taken a decided brace and quotations have been advanced accordingly. Some No. 2 oats brought 47 cents yesterday, but the market is not quoted higher than 46½c. Farmers are pretty busy looking after their harvests, and the situation here will not change much until new crops commence to arrive. Millfeed is still high and scarce.

HAY, GRAIN AND FEED.

Receipts bulletined—Pennsylvania, 18 cars hay, 2 cars feed, 2 cars oats, 1 car corn; Baltimore & Ohio, 4 cars hay; Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 4 cars oats.

Dealers charge an advance of $3 00 a ton on hay and millfeed, and 5 cents per bushel on grain from warehouses in less than carload lots.

TRADERS DO NOT TAKE WAR SCARE SERIOUSLY

Assuring Cables and Arrivals of New Wheat Keep Up Liquidation.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, July 20.—New wheat arriving liberally and alleged decreasing likelihood of serious complications in foreign affairs, caused heavy liquidation of wheat today. Final quotations on the September option were ⅝c down. Corn is off ¼@⅜c. Oats show a loss of ⅛@¼c and provisions 7½ to 20c.

At the opening of trading today, sentiment in the wheat pit was decidedly bullish. Initial quotations on September were up ½@⅝ to ⅝@¾c at 88¼ to 88⅜c. The causes for this feeling of strength were heavy rains during the night in Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Indiana, and a sharp advance at Liverpool in the face of the weakness here yesterday. A possibility of trouble arising between Great Britain and Russia was the main factor in the foreign situation and was responsible for an additional decline in consols which in turn had a buoyant effect on the wheat market here. With good profits in sight there was a great deal of long wheat for sale, offerings of July being especially liberal. While shorts were active bidders at the start the demand from that source was soon satisfied and weakness developed. A report that Russia had disavowed the act of its commander in searching merchant vessels in the Red sea was construed as lessening the probability of any fresh complication in the war situation. This was responsible for considerable of the selling pressure. Another bear factor was the prospects of a free movement of new wheat, receipts in the southwest showing a marked increase. Prices continued to decline until late in the day, when a reinstatement of lines sold out early caused a slight recovery. The low point on September was reached at 86⅞c. Final figures were at 87@87⅛c. July sold between 93 and 96c and closed at 93½c.

Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 150,900 bushels. Primary receipts were 879,900 bushels, compared with 487,400 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 211 cars against 230 cars last week, and 174 cars a year ago.

In sympathy with the strength of wheat a firm feeling prevailed in the corn pit at the opening, commission houses being fair buyers. The pit crowd, however, was bearish on crop prospects and sold freely on the break in wheat. The market lacked any definite support and became quite weak toward the end of the first hour. The weakness became more pronounced as the session advanced, the close being almost at the low point. September opened ⅛ to ¼c higher at 49⅝ to 49¾c, sold off to 49 and closed at 49⅛@49¼c. Local receipts were 130 cars, with three of contract grade.

Liquidation by local holders due to the slump in other grains caused an easier tone in oats. There was no heavy selling, but support was lacking when most needed. Crop advices were not very good, especially as to quality. After opening a shade lower to a shade higher at 33 to 33⅛c, September sold down to 32¾c, and closed at 32⅞c. Local receipts were 70 cars.

Uncertainty regarding the stock yards strike, together with heavy receipts of hogs and lower prices at the yards, caused weakness in provisions. There was only a small trade, packers doing most of the selling. At the close September pork was down 20c at $12 70. Lard was off 7½c at $6 85. Ribs showed a loss of 12½@15c at $7 45. Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 16 cars; corn, 183 cars; oats, 116 cars; hogs, 11,000 head.

Big Producer Is Found in the Southwest Fields

The best producer reported from the lower southwest fields yesterday is in the Littleton district, Wetzel county, W. Va., and is the Philadelphia Company's No. 4 on the J. K. Anderson farm, a locality that has been furnishing some very creditable producers for some time. When first drilled into the Gordon pay it did not show for a large well, but was drilled deeper and the ensuing 17 hours produced 175 barrels, or at the rate of about 250 barrels a day. Nothing better than light wells were found in the other districts. On the east side of the Folsom district, in Harrison county, the South Penn Company is drilling at 12 feet below the Gordon at its test on the J. A. Webb farm. The hole has filled up 1,200 feet with oil from the Gordon. The same company has drilled its No. 6 on the T. P. Parish farm through the Gordon and has no show for a producer. In the same district, the South Penn has drilled its test on the J. C. Horner farm 18 feet into the stray and has developed no oil.

In the same district the Delmar Oil Company has completed its test on the D. T. Roberts farm and will not have better than a five-barrel pumper in the Gordon. The same company has completed its second test on the Floyd A. Lyons farm and has the same kind of a pumper. The South Penn company's No. 3 Mary E. Heldreth and No. 3 Alva Robinson are producing five barrels each. The same company's No. 6 C. E. Robinson and No. 3 F. A. Parish are producing 20 and 15 barrels, respectively. No. 7 on the M. P. Dye farm has been fully completed and is producing 50 barrels a day. Very few of the once large producers now have a production of 100 or more barrels a day. No. 2 on the Jesse Ashcraft and No. 3 on the C. E. Robinson farm are holding up at 100 and 120 barrels a day, respectively.

In the Salem district, Harrison county, the South Penn company has drilled its Daniel Morris farm No. 3 through the stray and has a very little showing of oil. In the Wolf Summit field the South Penn has completed and shot its No. 3 on the John Dillon farm and has show for a 15-barrel pumper in the fifth sand. On Churches run, near Burton, Wetzel county, the Philadelphia Company's No. 1 on the Sarah Anderson farm has declined to 120 barrels a day. The way this test has declined from its initial production has caused some to be a little skeptical as to the future development of a large pool.

Near Stewart station, Tyler county, D. A. Bartlett & Co. have drilled their test on the J. B. Danser farm through the Keener and since giving it a shot have a show for a eight-barrel pumper. In the Littleton district, Wetzel county, there is a large amount of new work under way and starting. The Philadelphia Company is the most active in work of this kind. It is rigging up No. 1 on the S. K. Kirkpatrick farm and will drill it deeper. The location for No. 2 has been made. On Camp run the same company has started to drill at a second test on the James Parks farm. The same company is drilling Nos. 5, 6 and 7 on the J. K. Anderson farm and is building the rig for a test on the W. P. Hubbard farm on Long Drain run. The same company has made locations on the Jesse Cross and G. W. Anderson farms. The rig for a test on the William Cunningham farm is building and the tests on the A. Minor and S. R. Elliott farm are due in the Gordon. H. Chaney & Co. are due in the sand at a test on the S. Thomas farm. On Day's run, Clay district, Marion county, the Delmar Oil Company is down 1,000 feet with a test on the C. Ammons, Jr., farm. The Fisher Oil Company is building the rigs for Nos. 1 and 2 on Corb Ammons' farm.

Developments on the Ohio side are very light as compared with a few weeks ago. The most of the wells are small producers and in the old developments. As to size A. Girard & Co.'s No. 1 on the Otic Cody farm is an exception. This well is in the Wolf Creek district in Washington county, and under agitation is producing 240 barrels a day. In the same district the Pure Oil Producing Company has drilled its No. 13 on the George Rowland farm into the pay the well produced 45 barrels the first 24 hours. E. H. Jennings & Bros. & Selby have drilled their No. 4 on the Olive Work farm into the sand and have a show for a good producer.

North of Marietta, in the same county, George L. Craig & Co. have completed their No. 25 on the Reppert heirs' farm and have a show for an eight or ten-barrel pumper in the stray above the salt sand. At present they are fishing for a bit. In the same district the Calumet Oil Company has completed its No. 3 on the Charles H. Stevens farm and has a duster. In the Trail run district, Monroe county, the American Oil Company has completed its No. 7 on the Elizabeth A. Martin farm and has a show for a 20-barrel producer in the Big Injun sand.

STORE BUILDING NEAR DIAMOND

New Company Will Erect $100,000 Structure at Market and South Diamond Streets.

FIREPROOF HOUSES PLANNED

Rumors that have been current for several days of a big hotel to be erected at Market street and Fourth avenue led to the disclosure yesterday of a project to erect a store building at the southwest corner of Market and South Diamond streets. A company is practically formed to put through the project and the building will be erected next spring. Frank McCann owns the site, which measures 120x122 feet, and is occupied by a shoe store and the bakery and confectionery store of John Dimling. The leases on these expire next April. The building to be erected will be at least six stories high and will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000. The entire basement and first floor will be occupied by the butter and cheese store of McCann & Company, which is now in very cramped quarters at the Fourth avenue corner. The remainder of the building will be arranged for small store rooms adapted for tea and coffee stores, etc., and will be a strong competitor of the market house adjoining. No hotel is projected for this locality at present so far as known, although rumors have been rife for six months of a big hostelry to be built in Fourth avenue near the Wabash terminal. The company which will erect the Market street building is composed of Frank and Owen McCann, J. W. Chegwright and W. P. Fraser.

Henry Tries an Innovation.

D. F. Henry, proprietor of the Hotel Henry, has a house building proposition on hand that is a novelty to Pittsburghers, being the first of its kind ever tried in this city. Mr. Henry has let the contract to the National Fire Proofing Company for six nine-room houses to be built in Darragh street at a cost of about $4,500 each. The foundations are also being excavated for 12 more similar dwellings adjoining, which will be built by the same company. The houses will be built in pairs and will be strictly fire proof. Although fire proofing has been used largely in the building of business blocks, hotels and apartment houses in this city, this is the first lot of fire proof houses to be built, and it is creating no little interest among real estate men and builders.

The foundations of the houses are made of six-hole tile blocks which are guaranteed to withstand a pressure of 16,000 pounds to the square inch. From the ground to the floor level the walls will be rock-faced imitation stone. The front walls above the floor will be of buff pressed brick and the side and rear walls of red pressed brick. The floors are composed of a wire rod with a tensile strength of 52,000 pounds, on top of which are laid clay blocks six inches thick. The partitions are all hollow tile and the mansard and roof will be tile. Ornamental tile will be used also in the construction of the porches. Only the doors and casings will be of wood. The general plan of construction is the same as that used in the Allegheny General hospital, and has for its object the providing of a strictly fire-proof and sanitary house with the minimum use of steel. The material used is all kiln dried, so that it will neither expand nor contract, and will not be subject to "sweating." Fire proof houses of this sort have been built extensively in Chicago where this Johnson system of long span hollow tile construction was invented, and have proved very successful because of their sanitary qualities and their freedom from vermin of all sorts.

More Houses for Walker Place.

The Walker Place Land Company, through its manager, George T. McDonald, will take bids in a few days on 10 more houses to be erected on the old Walker property in the Eleventh ward, Allegheny. The houses will stand on lots 40x120 feet each and will face on Vernon, Mansion and California avenues. They will be 10-room reception hall dwellings costing $5,000 each. The significant point about this, as well as several other house building projects undertaken this summer, is that property owners of choice vacant frontage have found that this year they can sell improved lots to much better advantage than vacant property and are accordingly hastening to build good houses. The Walker Place Land Company has already spent $75,000 in improvements on their property since they bought it in 1903, and 19 houses are now completed or under way on the property.

By the purchase from the Mortgage Banking Company of 30x100 feet at the southeast corner of California and Arthur avenues, Allegheny, for $2,250, Denslow Brothers have completed a site 50x100 feet, on which they will build one of the finest apartment houses in Allegheny. Plans for the building are now being drawn by Architects Thomas W. Boyd & Son. It will be a four-story fireproof structure costing $40,000, of the colonial style. The flats will contain five and six rooms each and will rent for from $40 to $50 a month.

Allegheny Official Buys House.

Steven G. Porter, city solicitor of Allegheny, has bought the Walter Weistoff property in Brighton road, Eleventh ward, Allegheny, for $10,000. The property consists of 53x150 feet, nearly opposite the Brighton Country club, and improved with a 12-room reception hall brick house, built two years ago, and a frame stable. The house is of the German style, and has plate glass doors throughout. The purchase was made for a home.

Samuel W. Black & Co. have leased for William A. Way to the Kumbak Shoe Company the first floor and basement of 36 Fifth street, opposite the Horne store, for a term of years. Possession is given August 1. The lessees are now at Liberty and Oliver avenues, but have been notified to leave on account of the widening of the latter thoroughfare.

Bids are being taken by Architect J. P. Bailey on the Third Methodist Episcopal church at McKeesport. The church will cost when completed $17,000, but only a chapel will be built this summer.

The Pittsburgh Development Company is being organized to handle a large land proposition in Kentucky. The promoters are William H. Morrison, Harry B. Wassell and F. W. McElroy, all of Pittsburgh.

Railroads Are Preparing for Heavy Fall Traffic

Getting ready for the big fall movement of material is beginning to occupy the attention of the steam railroad men of the country. Many of them are finding that considerable work will have to be done. The construction departments of the railroads are not as idle as might have been supposed.

This work is the outgrowth of a change of mind on the part of the railroad men. Many of them had supposed that the time was come when a serious curtailment of business had to be prepared for. They looked for such a decrease in the country's business as would make it possible for them to go on with their work of improvement in the near future, or as would make such work necessary.

They have been scanning the field pretty carefully. They find that the crop conditions, while not good, are yet very encouraging. They have found a disposition toward the revival of energy on the part of the manufacturing concerns. The business of the country is very prosperous looking for the fall and winter and they are accordingly expecting that they will have to meet the demand of a lively business.

The result is that the equipment is being put in working order. The engines are being overhauled during the time that there is a moderate demand. All the railroads are getting ready for a lively business after the election. In some ways this may come before the election, but it will be only the starter of the boom which is scheduled for after the election.

New Rock Island Man.

Harry C. Young, the new traveling passenger agent of the Rock Island system at Pittsburgh, arrived in this city yesterday morning and General Agent D. H. Maloney spent a part of the day introducing him to the other railroad men here with whom he will do business. Mr. Young comes to Pittsburgh with a reputation as a successful passenger man. He entered railroad service in the city ticket office of the Lake Shore at Cleveland about eight years ago. He went with the Rock Island as city passenger agent in Cleveland two years ago and resigns that office to accept the promotion to the Pittsburgh position.

Mr. Young succeeds Phil. A. Auer, who has been appointed general passenger and ticket agent of the Chicago, Rock Island & Gulf railroad, the Texas system of the Rock Island, with headquarters at Ft. Worth. Preceding Mr. Auer, Perry Griffin had charge of the Rock Island passenger offices here, the title then being district passenger agent. The system has been fortunate in selecting for Pittsburgh men unusually capable and popular.

New Equipment for Wabash.

Within the next few weeks the Wabash will begin to receive new cars and engines to be installed in the Wheeling and Pittsburgh service. The first delivery is expected in about 10 days and the remainder will be turned over to the company by the latter part of August. The order calls for 40 locomotives, being built at the Baldwin locomotive works, all of which are expected to be out of the shops by August 15. These include only freight and shifting engines. An additional order of 30 engines for the passenger service will be completed a few weeks later. The engines are being built according to special designs furnished by J. B. Barnes, superintendent of motive power of the Wabash, whose headquarters are at Decatur, Ill. The drivers of the engines will be 79 inches in diameter and the pistons will have a 28-inch stroke.

Cheap Rate Denied.

Members of the Spanish-American War Veterans' association are much incensed over the refusal of the Central Passenger association at its last meeting to grant the request of the organization for a rate of 1 cent a mile to Wapakoneta, O., on the occasion of their annual encampment in that city in August. A member of the Central Passenger association said Tuesday that in view of the great difficulty with which the Grand Army of the Republic secured that concession for its last state encampment, the request of the younger veterans could hardly be expected.

P. & L. E. to Break Record.

The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie will make a record today in the handling of special passenger business. The operating officials have been compelled to borrow equipment to take care of the movement. The merchants of McKees Rocks will occupy two special trains of 16 coaches; the A. M. E. church will go to Aliquippa in a train of 12 coaches; two trains will be run from New Haven, having 18 coaches, and one train from Brownsville of 12 coaches for Grove City. This will make six special trains, besides the regular travel. J. H. Sterling, traveling passenger agent, is credited in booking the business, and he received special commendation from the head officials for his success.

Wabash Schedule to Be Changed.

A new schedule is to be established on the Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal railroad, commencing July 31. A large number of patrons of the new line have requested that changes be made and Col. Fred H. Tristram, assistant general passenger agent, has requested the passenger department to make the following changes: Train No. 13, which now leaves the city at 2:30 in the afternoon, to leave at 2 o'clock. The train which now leaves at 8:30 in the evening will leave at 7:30.

Railroad Notes.

The Pennsylvania railroad has awarded a contract for 78,000 tons of bolts to be used in constructing the North River (N. Y.) tunnel. The price, it is understood, is $40 a ton.

Charles Hamilton of the Wabash returned yesterday from a trip to St. Louis, escorting the Swifts' mission.

A meeting of the directors of the Buckhannon & Northern, the proposed connecting link between the Little Kanawha and the West Virginia Central & Pittsburgh, which will eventually form the tidewater line of the Wabash, was held in Pittsburgh yesterday. The meeting was held to discuss plans for completing the line.

Coffee and Sugar.

NEW YORK, July 20.—The market for coffee futures opened steady at unchanged prices and ruled generally quiet and featureless during the early trading, in keeping with the character of the early news. Later, however, offerings became heavier and business was quite active, including a number of switches from nearby to more distant options. The increased selling pressure seemed chiefly due to the offerings of importers hedging purchases in Brazil, and firm offers received from the primary markets were said to be on a slightly lower basis. The market closed steady at a net decline of 5@15 points. Sales were 73,500 bags, including July at 5.80@5.90c, September, 5.95@6.05c, December, 6.20@6.30c; March, 6.50@6.60c; May, 6.65@6.75c. FINEST STORE IN THE COUNTRY

That Is the Opinion of Experts on the Beautiful New Oliver Building.

WORK IS ALMOST COMPLETED

Swiftly and orderly, with no labor flurries or sensational accidents, the work of finishing the beautiful Oliver building at Wood street, Sixth and Oliver avenues is going forward day and night. From the time the architects, D. H. Burnham & Co. of Chicago, started the plans for the building until the present it has been the opinion of experts all over the country that it will be by far the finest store building in the United States. The outer beauty of the building, with its glistening white walls and symmetrical form, has been evident for weeks. But the lavish expenditure of money and the marvelous taste displayed in the interior are wonders that are left to delight Pittsburghers when the great store is opened by James McCreery & Co. of New York on September 14.

The building is a wonder in many ways. Although it is known as a 12-story building, it is higher than the average skyscraper of 20 stories, or several feet higher than the Park building. This is owing to the fact that its ceilings are 14 to 20 feet in height, affording light and air that no other store building in the country possesses. It is said to be the only store building that has natural light on four sides that can never be cut off. Not a point in the entire building is more than 45 feet from a direct source of light.

A Remarkably Happy Record.

Another wonderful thing about the building is that not a death or a single serious accident has occurred among the thousands of men who have been employed in its construction. Considering the magnitude of the work and the time occupied by it—only one year—and the appalling death record made in several skyscrapers in the city, this showing is a most remarkable one.

The building itself may be said to be practically done. A small army of scrubwomen has been started to clean the upper floors and windows, and within a few days some of the floors will be ready for goods. But the work of installing the fixtures of the building is in full swing, and these are bound to draw thousands of friends to the big store.

The fixtures are being placed under the direct supervision of H. J. White of Burnham & Co., who superintended this building as well as several other Pittsburgh structures, and of a representative of McCreery & Co. Some idea of their task can be obtained from the fact that the store fixtures alone are costing over $450,000, and that the contracts for the cases and shelving are the largest store contracts ever given out. The Robert Mitchell Furniture Company of Cincinnati has the contract for the fixtures on the second, third, fourth, sixth, eighth, ninth, tenth, twelfth and thirteenth floors and the basement. The rest of the building is being equipped by W. H. Warren & Co. of Chicago. The contract was divided, as no one firm in the country could get out the large amount of mahogany required in the time allowed.

Carloads of Fixtures Ordered.

Contrary to general custom in the erection of store buildings, every drawer and show case was specified and marked off on the drawings before the building was started. Eighty carloads of fixtures have been ordered for the building. In the shipments are included four carloads of mirrors and glasses for the show cases. Over 7,000 drawers will be needed. There will be 3,000 lineal feet of counters, and at least 10,000 feet of cases. These counters and cases are being unloaded daily at the Oliver avenue entrance and are attracting much attention from their size and weight. Could the passerby see the beautiful mahogany of which they are made uncovered he would be even more delighted.

Eleven floors of the building will be supplied with solid mahogany fixtures, and it is safe to say that no lot of mahogany ever shipped to Pittsburgh compares with this in its natural beauty and luster. It was grown in Cuba and Santo Domingo, and much of it is in very broad pieces, adding greatly to its value. The first and third-floor fixtures are inlaid with white holly, grown in Mississippi and Alabama, and the pattern of this innovation is a wonder of beauty. The third-floor fixtures will be inlaid with parquet.

The Beautiful Oriental Arcade.

Perhaps the most beautiful part of the building will be the oriental arcade, on the sixth floor, where the most costly foreign draperies and curios will be displayed. This corner is copied after a room in the Alhambra and will be one of the most elaborately decorated rooms in Pittsburg.

Among the novel features of the building is the circular incline for packages, doing away with a vast amount of confusion, and another circular incline into which the dirt and debris of the store will be swept and carried to the basement. An automatic sprinkling system is provided on every floor, as well as two six-inch lines of fire hose. Automatic fire doors preclude any danger of fire communicating to the floors from the 10 elevator shafts. The entire building is as fire proof as modern science knows how to make it.

The provision made for managers and employes of the great store surpasses anything of its kind in the country. The managers' quarters are provided with shower baths and toilet rooms. Every buyer in the store will have a separate room of his own especially adapted to his uses. The counting rooms and credit department of the store on the seventh floor, are being fitted up in a lavish manner. A large restaurant for public use will be provided and another lunch room for use of the 900 employes of the store. The finishing touches are now being put to a kitchen that for size and convenience rivals any hotel kitchen in the city. Its floor of white enameled tile and its complete array of the latest fixtures make it one of the most interesting spots in the store. A large laundry will also help to make the store a little world in itself.

Hospital for the Employes.

No store in the country will pay more attention to the sanitary and social conditions under its roof than the mammoth establishment of James McCreery & Co. On one floor of the building there is being fitted up a hospital for the employes, complete in every detail that will add to their safety and comfort. This hospital will be in charge of a trained nurse, who will have entire supervision of the sanitary arrangements of the building. A social secretary is also to be installed to look after the moral interests of the hundreds of clerks.

The stockrooms of the building are so arranged that large quantities of goods can be taken in at any time without inconvenience to trade. Every stockroom will be in charge of a bonded employe, and he will have at his disposal hundreds of steel compartments for his goods. One of the most valuable features of the building is an immense storeroom for furs, three stories high and kept at cold-storage temperature at all seasons by the circulation of brine.

Day and night for six months 350 men have been working on the building. The first steel was set September 1, 1903, and before next September every detail of the store will be installed and the building will be turned over to the lessees fully completed. This will give ample time for the shipment and placing of the immense stocks of goods which have been ordered for the opening.

Russo-German Treaty Negotiated.

BERLIN, July 20.—According to the Tageblatt the negotiations between M. Witte, president of the Russian committee of ministers, and Chancellor von Buelow, on the subject of a new Russo-German commercial treaty, have been successfully completed, Russia accepting the German minimum duties on grains and Germany making some concessions to facilitate the importation of Russian cattle and meats.

Governor's Daughter Is Sponsor.

TIN FINISHERS' SCALE ADJUSTED

Workmen Accept Reduction of About 4½ Per Cent from Last Year's Scale.

REBATE DEMAND WITHDRAWN

The American Sheet and Tin Plate Company and the Tin Plate Workers' Protective association effected a settlement yesterday on a basis of 4½ per cent reduction from last year's scale. In addition to this, the company withdrew its demand that the workmen agree to a rebate on orders formerly filled by Welsh manufacturers and gave the workmen many concessions not heretofore enjoyed.

In view of the present conditions of the tin and terne market, the workmen received a far better settlement than was expected by the committee in conference.

Mr. Heedy, formerly secretary of the Andrews Brothers Rolling Mill Company, Youngstown, has been selected by the Republic Iron and Steel Company as one of the three arbitrators to adjust the scale of the boilers and finishers. M. M. Garland was appointed by the Amalgamated association, but his name has been withdrawn. The wage committee met yesterday and selected a substitute for Garland, but refused to give the name of the person selected until he has accepted or rejected the request to serve on the board. If he accepts, the two will select a third and meet next week to take testimony from both sides and render a decision as soon after as possible.

The Amalgamated association and the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company will meet today to settle the rebate question. The association wants the system abolished, while the company is persistent in having it continued. The association will be represented by President T. J. Shaffer, Secretary J. J. Williams, John A. Kersey, Zeke Flownes, John Kaufman, William Young, Elijah Reese, Albert McMahon, Thomas I. Jones, T. J. Collins, Thomas Timothy and M. Griffiths.

PAN-AMERICAN PAPER BACKED IN PITTSBURGH

"El Americans" Is to Strive for Better Understanding With Spanish Countries.

To publish a paper which is designed to make the people of all the Americas understand each other socially, politically and commercially, is the aim of a company which was incorporated yesterday under the laws of the District of Columbia. The paper has the cordial support of the Pittsburghers who are backing the United States & Nicaragua Company. It will be published in New York in the Spanish language and its circulation will embrace every country of Central and South America.

"The editor of the paper will be Caesar Zumeta, a Spanish-American newspaper man who has a wide reputation for the excellence of his work," said James Deltrick of the United States & Nicaragua Company, yesterday. "The name of the paper will be 'El Americano,' or, in English, 'The American,' and its title is supposed to be one that applies to every part of the western hemisphere, north, south or central. The development of tropical America needs such an organ to educate the business men of all the Americas to the needs and the habits of thought of those with whom they should do business. It is to be strictly a Pan-American publication.

"The Spanish press of Central and South America is rabidly hostile as a general thing to anything that pertains to the 'Yankees.' It uses every yellow newspaper report of alleged misconduct in government to show its readers that the people and the government of the United States are anything but desirable and to cultivate hostility to the United States. This is to be overcome best by such a publication as El Americano."

HURRYING SETTLEMENT AS FAST AS IS POSSIBLE

Stephen Stone Says Depositors in Prudential Trust Are Not to Lose.

As rapidly as is possible in view of the large number of depositors' accounts, the affairs of the Prudential Trust Company, East Liberty, are being cleared up by the Mercantile Trust Company, to which the Prudential made an assignment.

Stephen Stone of Stone & Stone, attorneys for the Mercantile, said last evening that matters are in such shape that there is no doubt as to the depositors in the Prudential receiving every cent that is due them. The Philadelphia contractors who went into court in connection with the case will be treated only as other creditors.

There was an unusually large number of small accounts at the Prudential, many of them being for $1 or only a little more. This complicates matters considerably, adding to the detail of the work of preparing a schedule of liabilities and assets. This schedule was due to be filed some time ago, but the court granted an extension of time until a week from next Saturday, July 30, to complete this work.

The prospects are, Mr. Stone says, for a settlement within a reasonably short time. Just when the depositors can be paid, he says, cannot be told as yet.

When the food fails to keep you well

Change

for sickness is a cry of Nature for the right elements to build and rebuild the body properly.

A 10 days' change from the old diet to a new works wonders if skillfully selected. Try

A Little Fruit,
A Saucer of GRAPE-NUTS and Cream,
A Piece of very Hard Toast,
A Cup of well-made POSTUM COFFEE.

Nothing more for breakfast.
At midday the same and add 2 soft-boiled eggs.

Then eat a meat and vegetable dinner at night. Such a change will work some surprising results for health.
